THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXII. ATLANTA, GA., TUESDAY MORNING, MARCH 31, 1891. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

JUDGE CRISP'S CANDIDACY

ATTACKED BY BACKROOM CONSPIRATORS

IN THE INTEREST OF OTHER MEN.

The Charge Made that He Is in a Deal with Hill and Gorman—Judge Crisp's Service as Leader of the House.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—[Special.]—That which was anticipated by Judge Crisp's friends has happened.

The conspiracy has broken loose.

A despicable species of warfare has been begun on him by certain western newspapers, notably The St. Louis Republic, for the purpose of handicapping him in the speakership. The Georgian is far in the lead in the race, and this attack is made in the interest of Roger Q. Mills, although he is probably not a party to it. It is an attempt to show that Crisp is not in line with the democracy on the tariff question; that he is a protege of Senator Joe Brown and THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, and believes in their school of political economy. In other words, that he is a tariff reformer who does not want the tariff reformed, and that his election would be a signal victory for the Randall wing of the democratic party. The statement is further made that Senator Gorman, who is now traveling in the south, has effected a combination between Governor Hill and Judge Crisp. That is, the impression is thrown out that if Crisp is elected it will put a Crisp-Hill-Gorman combine in the saddle, and give tariff reform a black eye. The object, of course, is to make Crisp unpopular with the west.

Nothing could be more unjust and more at variance with the truth. It is an insidious attack that is bound to react. The fact that it was to be made was known before congress adjourned, and also that the columns of The Republic were to be used as the vehicle.

In the end the attack will rather benefit than injure Judge Crisp. When a man's record is assaulted it only serves to lay that record fully before the world, and it becomes in turn its own vindication.

That will be the result in this case.

As a democratic warrior, Judge Crisp has been a veritable Bayard—without fear and without reproach. He fought in the ranks of the tariff reformers on the floor of the house as gallantly as any of them, and the speech he made on the McKinley bill was a masterpiece. It was pronounced at the time the greatest speech of the session. In every fight that was made the Georgian stood out like a giant, and when he had charge of the minority during the bitter debates on the contested election cases his generalship was faultless. Crisp is essentially a conservative and modest man, and during the fight on the rule he gave way to Mills and McMillin, who were his seniors, but on several occasions, by sheer force of intellect, he took command, and whenever he did he never made a blunder. To Crisp, and to Crisp alone, is due the honor of the only victory of the minority against Reed in the last congress. He cast only a single vote during his congressional career, the propriety of which can be assailed. That was in favor of the original package bill and not strictly a party question. Many other democrats voted the same way. If it was an error, at least no man is infallible. I was talking to Judge Candler on this very point shortly before congress adjourned, and he reminded me of the anecdote of Henry Clay, the great Kentuckian, when he was a candidate for president. He was on a campaigning tour through the mountains of Tennessee, when he met an old man with a coonskin cap and carrying a squirrel rifle on his shoulder. He accosted the hunter, approached him on the subject of politics and found him extremely hostile to his own candidacy on account of a certain vote he had cast in congress. Was there anything else? No, the hunter admitted that that was the only thing he had against Clay. Otherwise he thought him the greatest statesman of the age. Clay then asked him about his gun. Yes, it was the finest rifle in the state of Tennessee. Did it ever miss fire? Yes, it had missed fire—just once. Why didn't he throw it away, then? Because even if it had missed fire on one occasion it was still the best gun in Tennessee.

"Ah," said Clay, "you won't throw away your excellent gun because it missed fired once, but you intend to vote against Clay because his action on one occasion doesn't suit you." He then told the hunter who he was, and it is needless to say his argument was convincing and Clay got that vote.

As far as the alleged combination between Hill, Gorman and Crisp is concerned, there is no truth whatever in it, although it is true that Gorman is personally disposed towards Crisp's candidacy. It seems rather strange that Senator Gorman's advocacy of a man's candidacy should be lugged in as an argument againt him just at the time when the democracy of the country is under the deepest debt of gratitude to him for the magnificent and successful manner in which he accomplished the defeat of the force bill. Gorman is the brainiest and shrewdest politician in the democratic party. He appreciates, as few men in the party do, that the rock on which the democratic ship may go to pieces is the silver question, and he is advising the leaders against making free silver party policy because it would inevitably split the eastern democrats off from those of the south and west and preclude the possibility of success in 1892. Instead of being adverse to tariff reform, Senator Gorman says that it alone can and must be made the paramount issue in the next campaign. He is as heartily in sympathy with the cause as Carlisle or Vest or Mills or Wilson or Cleveland. As a practical politician in 1888 Gorman deprecated Cleveland's action in sending his tariff message to congress, because he divined what proved to be correct—that the country would not have time to recover from the effect of the free trade scare before the election. He simply considered it ill-advised as a political move. Politics is not an altruistic or philanthropic institution. It is primarily a game of strategy, in which the triumph of principle follows the most successful and opportune presentation. Because a certain principle like that of tariff reform happens to be uppermost in the party, it is no crime that indivdual members of that party should have at some time in the past doubted the propriety of making that question party policy. If only the pioneers in the fight for tariff reform were now deserving of the confidence and support of the democracy, even such distinguished democrats as Grover Cleveland himself would be debarred Tariff reform was a great issue before Mr. Cleveland went to the head of the movement. When he was interviewed in 1884, after his nomination, he studiously refrained from any expression whatever on that subject, and even as late as the spring before he sent his message to congress, when the Morrison horizontal reduction bill was pending, he declined to give it any support whatever from the white house.

Senator Ingalls on one occasion, speaking of Mr. Cleveland, advanced this idea very vividly by saying that a man crossing the Desbrosses street ferry into New York for the first time and gazing on the river, across which countless millions had traveled, might as well proclaim himself, then and there, the discoverer of the Hudson river as for Mr. Cleveland to take the credit for the issue of tariff reform.

The conspiracy will not succeed.

Judge Crisp will succeed Thomas Bracket Reed as speaker of the house of representatives.

PROVIDING FOR THE INDIANS.

Indemnity for Property Lost During the Recent Trouble.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The commissioner of Indian affairs has sent to agents at various Sioux reservations a letter giving a synopsis of all existing treaties and agreements between the Sioux and the government, including the Indian appropriation acts passed during the last congress. The commissioner directs the agents to state to the Indians that Agent Cooper has been instructed to proceed to Pine Ridge, and find out definitely what persons suffered the loss of property during the late trouble, and that as soon as this information is received the $100,000, which congress appropriated to make good these losses, will be paid to them.

They are also directed to explain that the agents have been requested to report to him what Indians are ready and entitled to receive from the government cows and other stock, and as soon as this information is received, stock will be purchased and sent to them. The Indians are also to be told that the superintendent of Indian schools is now investigating the matter of establishing a large boarding school at Rosebud, improving the boarding schools at Pine Ridge and elsewhere and of locating and building the thirty-day schools provided for, and that it is hoped that, before the opening of the new school year in September, all of this work will either be completed or well under way, so that they will have next year better school facilities than they have ever had.

The agents are also instructed to inform the Indians that probably within the next month a commission will be appointed to settle the question of the boundary line between Pine Ridge and Rosebud, and that orders have already been given for the establishment of subissue stations at convenient places. Larger and better cattle will also be furnished the Indians. The commissioner directs that the agents state to the Indians very fully and very emphatically that a renewal of disturbances will postpone the payment of money and the furnishing of supplies.

MUST POST THEIR RATES.

A Decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The interstate commerce commission today announced its decision in the case of the New Orleans cotton exchange against the Louisville, New Orleans and Texas Railroad Company, in an opinion by Commissioner Morrison. Complaint was made that the railway company violates the act to regulate commerce by charging higher rates on cotton from Memphis and other points in Tennessee and Mississippi to New Orleans than it charges on cotton intended for export and shipped from the same points to Southport, La., within the port of New Orleans, and that the rates charged by it on both domestic and export cotton shipment are not posted in its depots, stations and offices in New Orleans.

Since the hearing the railway company has equalized rates on cotton to its terminal stations in New Orleans, and, therefore, no order directing it to do so is necessary; but an order will be issued requiring it to post in its terminal stations at New Orleans, in convenient form for public inspection, the rates in force between its New Orleans termini and stations in Tennessee and Mississippi, as well as freight for export as on that which is not.

DIRECT TAX CLAIMS.

How Shall the Money be Paid to the States?

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Treasury officials are considering the best method of settling the direct tax claims of individuals in those states where the tax was collected directly by United States officers. The act provides that in such cases, money in settlement of direct tax claims shall be paid to the governors of states in trust for the claimants. It so happens, however, that the records of these collections are in the custody of the government, and that the governors have no record information on the subject. Several ways out of the difficulty have been suggested, and the one most likely to be adopted is for the governors to appoint agents to make a transcript of the government records, and for the governors to settle the claims in accordance therewith. Under this plan states would be allowed to retain all that portion of its allotment for which claims shall not be presented within six years from the date of the passage of the act. Applications for their share have been already received from three states.

Lemcke Does Not Want the Place.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—J. A. Lemcke, of Indiana, who has been prominently mentioned as the probable successor of United States Treasurer Huston, informed the president today that his health was so bad that he did not desire to be considered in connection with that office any longer, especially as he had arranged to go abroad in May. It is stated at the white house that while Lemcke had never been tendered the treasurership, his name had been very favorably considered in that connection; also that Huston's resignation will not be accepted until his successor shall have been appointed.

Ready for the Argument.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The department of justice has received the return of the Alaskan district court to the writ issued by the supreme court, asking that cause be shown why a writ of prohibition should not issue in the case of the schooner Sayward, libeled for a violation of the law prohibiting sealing in Behring sea. It will be filed in a short time by Attorney General Miller or Solicitor General Taft, and no reason is now known why the argument should not be proceeded with on the second Monday in April.

Five of Them Captured.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Attorney General Miller today received a telegram from United States Marshal Walker, at Pensacola, Fla., saying that five of the men connectad with the shooting of United States officers at Bonifay, Fla., in December last, have been arrested, and that they pleaded guilty to having conspired to kill the government officers. He says that he expects to catch the other persons concerned in that affair.

That Free Coinage Test.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The supreme court of the District of Columbia, in general term today, issued an order requiring the secretary of the treasury, Foster, to show cause why the writ asked for by George G. Merriak, to compel the treasury department to accept the silver brick for free coinage, should not be issued. The order is made returnable Monday next.

The Writ Refused.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The supreme court of the United States today refused to grant the application for a writ of habeas corpus in a somewhat celebrated murder case of Dick Duncan vs. McCall, sheriff of Bexar county, state of Texas.

Damages for the Loss of a Son.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 30.—[Special.]—Dr. J. J. Mauker today entered suit against the Union railroad for the death of his son three weeks ago. The boy was riding on the front platform, a wheel under the car broke and threw the boy off. His head was mashed to jelly. The father sues for $25,000.

JERRY PUTTING ON AIRS.

HE STOPS AT A FASHIONABLE HOTEL.

HAPPY THAT PALMER WAS ELECTED

Because the Alliance Wants the Balance of Power in the Senate—How they Expect to Do It.

NEW YORK, March 30.—An evening paper says that Congressman Jerry Simpson, of Kansas, was at the Windsor hotel today. He occupied a six-dollar-a-day room, and seemed to be perfectly at home in the hotel where millionaires stop. This dialogue took place between Mr. Simpson and a reporter:

"Some of the republican papers in New Hampshire say Senator Chandler invited you to speak in that state. Did he?"

"I have never heard anything about it. I spoke there under the auspices of the Farmers' Alliance. It is rather queer that I should be accused of being an ally of the republicans in the north. Now, in the south the democrats declare the Farmers' Alliance is in with the republicans, and in the north the republicans declare we are nothing but democrats. And between the two we go ahead, gather strength, and in 1892 both parties will see what we are and whether we can paddle our own canoe."

"Do you expect to run a candidate of your own?"

"I think so, but cannot say yet. Next year, some time, we will have a big conference and decide what we shall do. It looks to me as if we should be able to put a candidate in the field and win."

"You are accused of helping to elect Senator Palmer. Did you lend him any aid?"

"Well, I went by Springfield, and I am not sorry that Palmer is elected senator. Why should I not want to see him elected senator? We want to hold the balance of power in the senate and in the house, and naturally I did not wish to see a republican elected, because it would lessen our chances in the senate."

"How do you expect to have the balance of power in the senate by the election of Palmer?"

"Easy enough. He is a democrat and will vote against protection and against republicans on every vital point. Well, with Peffer and Kyle and several silver senators from the west, the alliance expects to repeal the tariff. That is our aim, and I do not think we can fail."

This is his first visit here, and he intends to see the city thoroughly. His address will not be Windsor hotel after today, but in care of Henry George.

CLEVELAND'S LETTER WAS INSULTING

Senator Pugh Takes Open Ground Against the Ex-President.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 30.—[Special.]—In an interview here today, Senator James L. Pugh said to your correspondent:

"Mr. Cleveland's uncompromising hostility to the free and unlimited coinage of silver compels me to oppose his nomination in 1892. If nominated he could not be elected, for that would, in my judgment, drive the supporters of free coinage into a third party. My opinion is that the free coinage of silver will be a a sharper issue by itself, and worth more to the democratic party than tariff reform, as unwisely made a single issue by Mr. Cleveland in 1888. When the force bill was before congress, and the whole country was alarmed, Mr. Cleveland kept silence, but when the silver bill whipped the force bill, Mr. Cleveland and his gold friends broke the silence and opened war on the silver bill in the most insulting language, and smothered it in defiance of an almost unanimous democratic support. The anti-silver letter of Mr. Cleveland was insulting to every supporter of free coinage as impeaching their capacity.

Senator Pugh while non-committal as to his choice, expressed a great liking for Hill.

FATHER CRAFT'S PREDICTION

Of Trouble Unless the Indians Are Transferred to the War Department.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 30.—Mr. Eugene T. McAuliffe, of this city, yesterday received a letter dated Pine Ridge agency, March 23d, from Rev. Father Francis M. J. Craft, the Indian missionary, who predicted the recent Indian troubles and who himself was shot at Wounded Knee. In the communication Father Craft earnestly points out the danger of more serious trouble unless the Indians are placed under control of the war department. He says in part:

As the case stands now, the causes of the trouble still exist and the Indians and whites are at the mercy of any rascal who finds it to his interest to annoy and endanger them. The only thing that stands in the way of a speedy and permanent settlement of all the difficulties by the immediate transfer of the Indians to the war department, is the desire of politicians to retain plunder. As these politicians are our public servants, and in our power, we American citizens should use that power to turn them out of the offices they have abused to our loss and disgrace. With the people rest the remedy, and on them will rest the blame if they will not bestir themselves. Every word that I have said for the past year has been verified, and more than verified, and I think it is now time for Americans to say what they are going to do. The American people are responsible, if they fail to act at once, for evils that will certainly follow. Heaven grant that I may not now be making another prediction, to be lightly disregarded and terribly verified. If the Indians are not to be transferred to the war department, but are to be further robbed and abused, I suppose I must prepare for another dose of lead and steel, which will, I hope, be more effective than the last. I am heartily sick and tired of witnessing miseries that I can not correct, and sharing the sufferings of the unfortunate Indians and brave soldiers, who are forced into the conflict and then slandered by the cowardly politicians who slaughtered them.

A BATTLE IN INDIA

In Which Nearly Five Hundred Were Killed.

CALCUTTA, March 30.—A dispatch from Manipur, province of Assam, brings news of a disaster to a force of native troops there News was brought to Kohima, on the Assam frontier, by two goorkhas (native soldiers in the British service) who arrived there yesterday. The massacre originated in a feud between the rajah of Manipur and the leading tribal chief. The rajah was deposed and he appealed to the viceroy. British Commissioner Quinton was sent to settle the trouble, and started from headquarters at Shillong, escorted by the Forty-second and Forty-fourth Goorkha Light Infantry. After crossing the frontier Quinton summoned the chiefs to Durbar at Manipur for the purpose of arresting the rebellious chief. The tribesmen, pretending to obey the summons, mustered in force, and at midnight before the day on which Durbar was to be held suddenly attacked the camp. The attempt to surprise the camp failed, and the tribesmen were driven back. They returned, however, and kept up the attack day and night for forty-eight hours. Finally the ammunition of the Goorkhas gave out, and Commissioner Quinton was obliged to give the order, "Save who can."

During the fight scouts were sent out to try to communicate with Shillong, but they never returned. Manipur natives cut the telegraph wires and killed the messengers. The fugitives report that a general massacre followed the taking of the camp. There is reason for believing that the estimate that 470 were killed is incorrect.

One account of the affair reports that Commissioner Quinton and his staff were made prisoners. Another account says that Shene, the commander; Commissioner Quinton, with his son, Captain Bolleau and six officers were killed, the natives refusing to give them quarter.

The rebellious tribe is famous for cunning cruelty and bravery. Immediately upon receiving news of the disaster the viceroy at Simla summoned a council. Two native regiments stationed in Assam have already been dispatched to Manipur. The Third Bengal infantry will start for the scene tomorrow.

THE CAMPAIGN IN SLIGO.

A Fight in the Road, But Nobody Hurt—The Casualties of Sunday's Battle.

DUBLIN, March 30.—Michael Davitt returned from Sligo to Easkey by a circuitous route Sunday night. Mr. Condon immediately called a meeting and dared Davitt to show himself. An altercation in the road led to a scuffle between Roche and Conway. Members of parliament and police were obliged to separate the combatants. Davitt remained in Easkey until this afternoon. Quiet has prevailed in North Sligo today. The McCarthyites continued their canvass, and Parnell addressed a metting in Tireragh. The surgeons of Sligo have been kept busy today dressing wounds received in yesterday's fights. The mayor has refused to grant the use of the town hall to either party.

The Story Is Fiction.

BERLIN, March 30.—Newspapers of this city dismiss the reported interview which the Marquis de Millevanne says took place in 1866 between the late Prince Napoleon and Prince Bismarck, at which the latter is said to have proposed a combination of France and Prussia against Russia and the rest of Europe, as being a piece of absolute fiction, evident from the fact that Prince Napoleon was not even in Berlin in 1866.

Will Sail on Regular Time.

LIVERPOOL, March 30.—Agents of the Inman Steamship Company have issued a circular in which they officially deny that the steamer City of New York sustained any damage by fire, which occurred on board of her Friday night last. They also announce that the City of New York will positively sail for New York on Wednesday next, her regular sailing day.

HE DRANK THE WHISKY,

But Was Found Dead the Next Morning.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—Bernard McKee, residing at 2414 Bodine street, this city, was found dead in the rooms of the "Dauphin Literary Club," a drinking organization near his home, this morning. Last night McKee boasted in the hearing of a number of companions, who were drinking in the clubroom, of the quantity of liquor he was capable of consuming. One of the party, who held a goose eggshell in his hand, offered to wager that McKee could not drain it of whisky three times. The wager was accepted and a quart of liquor procured. After McKee had fulfilled the terms of the bet, he became stupefied, and was laid on the floor. This morning, when the club house was opened, McKee was found dead on the floor. His knees were drawn up close to his chin and his arms were twisted behind his neck, as though he had suffered terrible agony.

THAT TERRIBLE GRIP.

A Whole Family Dies from Its Consequences.

WINCHESTER, Va., March 30.—A whole family, consisting of Adam Barley, aged sixty-four; his wife, aged forty-two; sister, sixty-eight, and daughter, twenty, have died within the past week, after a few days' illness of la grippe, followed by pneumonia. They lived near Stephens City, in this county.

Hearing Orange Growers' Complaints.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 30.—The interstate commerce commission met here today to hear complaints of the orange and vegetable growers of Florida against the railroad and steamship companies for excessive freight charges on those products. The day was occupied in taking testimony in the suit of the orange growers, which is brought by the Florida railroad commission against the Savannah, Florida and Western Railway Company et al. praying for reimbursement of 10 cents per box on oranges from Jacksonville to New York and other eastern points, and asking that the rate be lowered from 40 to 25 cents per box.

Supposed to Close the Breach.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 30.—[Special.]—The congregation of St. Michael and St. Paul churches today elected delegates to the diocesian convention. As these were the only churches that remained unrepresented in the convention of the settlement of the color question, the election of delegates is regarded as a final healing of the schism which has prevailed in the diocese for the past four or five years. The trouble arose from the placing of the name of a negro clergyman on the roll of clerical deputies, which action caused quite a number of parishes to secede.

Advices from Honolulu.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—The British steamer Elon arrived from Honolulu yesterday with news up to March 18th. The queen has announced the members of her privy council. Among the members are the queen's husband, John Dominis, and about forty other prominent men of the kingdom.

The missionary schooner Chapman was lost on the west coast of Tahiti, November 30, 1890. She was bound from Honolulu to Pitcairn island. The crew, numbering sixteen, were drowned.

The Switch Was Open.

SELMA, Ala., March 30.—[Special.]—The East Tennessee fast passenger, No. 64, from Mobile last night ran into an open switch at Lake Lanier, nine miles west of here and collided with a lumber train. The entire train of four cars was wrecked. Fireman Atkins Radley was killed. The engineer miraculously escaped. A lady passenger was cut on the back of the neck. The evidence shows that the switch had been thrown from the main line by some one who had a grudge against the road.

Another Extra Session Must Be Held.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 30.—[Special.]—The forty-seventh general assembly adjourned today. In the house the republicans and a number of democrats filibustered all the morning, and succeeded in defeating the redistricting bill. The constitution is mandatory, and says the state shall be redistricted every ten years, so that it seems probable that an extra session will have to be called.

A New Kind of a Congress.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 30.—[Special.]—The real estate congress assembled here today with a fair attendance. The work of organization consumed the major part of the day.

The object of the congress is to organize a national real estate exchange, and this will be effected tomorrow.

The Southern Interstate Exposition.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 30.—[Special.]—Plans for the southern interstate exposition building here have been decided on. The building will have about 900 feet front. Everything will be under one roof. The exposition begins June 1st and ends December 1st. Notices are being received by its management of large exhibits which are being prepared.

Tabernacle Services in Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 30.—[Special.]—A big tabernacle, seating 400 people, with a choir of 150 voices, opened yesterday and is attracting much attention. All the ministers of the city participated. Despite the rain tonight, the tabernacle is packed.

Transfer of the "Monon."

NEW YORK, March 30.—Control of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago road was transferred today. President Breyfogle resigned and was succeeded by General Samuel Thomas.

WOULD WIPE HIS CHIN.

THE SIGNAL TO BE GIVEN TO A BRIBED JUROR

IN CASE THE MONEY WAS PAID OVER

But the Little Game Didn't Work—Bad Boys Arrested for Burglary—The Trial of Kincaid for Killing Taulbee.

CHICAGO, March 30.—A bold attempt at jury bribing in a $10,000 damage case against the Yerkes cable street railway was exposed in Judge McConnell's court today. The accused jury fixers are J. J. Hopper and M. C. Shannon, two real estate brokers. Hopper admitted his guilt, but Shannon denied all knowledge of the crime, though admitting acquaintance with Hopper and having talked with the latter since the trial began. It appeared from Hopper's confession that after Shannon was selected as a juror, Hopper went to the claim agent of the street railway company and offered to secure a verdict in favor of the company, or a disagreement, for $300. The claim agent pretended to accept, and had Hopper shadowed from the moment he left the company's office. The arrests were made just when the jury was retiring to consider the verdict. A peculiar signal was said by Hopper to have been agreed upon to show that the bribe money had been paid by the defendant corporation for the corrupt verdict. If the money was in hand Hopper was to come into the courtroom, and, taking a drink at the water cooler, slowly wipe off his chin.

TAULBEE MADE THREATS

Against Kincaid About Writing a Certain Article—The Murder Trial.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—In the Kincaid trial today the dispute pending since the defense began presenting their case, as to the admissibility of testimony showing prior threats by Taulbee against Kincaid, was settled by the judge admitting such testimony. One witness on this point was Albert J. Kelly, of Terre Haute, Ind., who said he had been intimate with Taulbee, and had heard him say the world was not wide enough for the writer of the article to escape his vengeance. This was in reference to an article written by Kincaid, connecting Taulbee with a scandal in this city. Witness had communicated this threat to Kincaid.

The cross-examination of this witness by the government counsel brought out the fact that he had been obliged to resign from the interior department under the charge of having pawned a typewriter belonging to the department.

Other witnesses, whose personal character was not impeached, testified to having heard Taulbee make threats against Kincaid, or to having known of such threats by common report.

BOY BURGLARS.

Sons of Prominent Citizens of Logansport, Ind.

LOGANSPORT, Ind., March 30—[Special.]—During the past six months numbers of burglaries have been committed in this city, but the police could get no trace to the thieves. Last Saturday the Terre Haute police arrested four boys charged with vagrancy, and in their possession were found letters and articles of value indicating their home was in this city.

Today they were brought here, and it developed during the preliminary examination that these boys had done much of the crooked business here for over a year. The boys are the sons of well-known citizens. One of them is Edwin Overholtzer, son of the doctor of that name, who two years ago ran for congress in this district on the prohibition ticket. The others are George Hall, John Roof and Frank Welch. They were bound over to await the action of the grand jury.

RIOTING AT THE MINES.

A Mob of Strikers Drive the Workmen Away.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 30.—A dispatch from Scottdale, Pa., says: There is rioting at a large number of coke plants this morning. A mob of 1,500 infuriated strikers swept down on Jimtown plant early this morning, routed the workmen, assaulted several men and threatened the superintendent's life. A bomb was set off at West Leisenring and the men notified not to go to work. The Leith works, near Uniontown, were also raided and the workmen put to flight. Labor leaders are trying to allay the excitement, as other raids are feared.

A BAD TOWN MARSHAL.

He Shoots Another Man's Wife Because She Refused to Elope.

CARROLLTON, Ky., March 30.—Robert Bartlett, town marshal of Priestville, being infatuated with the young wife of Dr. Contri, a prominent physican there, shot her through the breast last night, because she would not elope with him. Mrs. Contri will die. He fired two shots at M. C. Hunt and wife and escaped. Bartlett is a genuine desperado.

FIGHTING THE BARROOMS.

The Police Make an Unexpected Crusade Against Them.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The police made a crusade against the barrooms yesterday. Five cases are reported on the police docket today for "keeping open barrooms and selling liquor on Sunday." The cases are against John P. Cartwright, A. P. Padgett, Alex Whiteley, Charles Burch and Mr. Gallaway. Judge Pierce will investigate them in the morning.

Burglary in Quitman.

QUITMAN, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The residence of Mr. J. W. Avera was burglarized last Saturday night. Mr. Avera and his wife were spending the night in the country, and burglars were not discovered until last night. An entrance was afforded by breaking open one of the windows. A valuable gold watch and chain and other things, aggregating $120, were stolen. No clue to the perpetrators of the crime, has been obtained.

A Postmaster Arrested.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 30.—[Special.]—R. F. Walker, postmaster of Warrior, Ala., and his partner, John Denley, were arrested today charged with converting $250 of postoffice money orders to the firm's use. They were brought before United States Commissioner Hunter, and the latter gave a $1,000 bond to appear tomorrow. Dunley was discharged. Both men stand high in their community, and the arrest caused much excitement.

His Pockets Were Rifled.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 30.—[Special.]—W. J. Johnston, a traveling salesman of Heereh Bros. & Co., Pittsburg, was robbed of $200 in money and a gold watch valued at $275, also some wearing apparel and two mileage books. The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Futures declined two to three points, and so remained throughout the day, closing dull. The stolidity of the market was well illustrated by the fact that June contracts sold at only one price throughout the day, namely 8.88 The Liverpool market remained closed, and speculation on our cotton exchange kept within the narrowest limits. The large crop movement was a depressing influence. At the close the receipts of 3,600 bales at interior towns, against 1,500 bales last year, attracted attention, and it was reported that New Orleans will receive 15,000 bales tomorrow. Spot cotton was very dull.

A STORY OF A CAT.

Its Strange Devotion to a Dead Child. Watching Over the Grave.

DANIELSVILLE, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—A strange story in which a cat is a pathetic character, has come to light at Paoli. A little boy of that village owned a cat that was a great pet in the family. But the cat would have nothing to do with any one except the boy. The latter died, and for two weeks the cat would come as usual every morning to the door and, going in the room, would cry very mournfully and walk over the child's bed hunting for its lost friend. Finally the cat disappeared, only returning occasionally. At last one of the child's sisters saw the cat in the graveyard, where it remains, only returning for food. It keeps guard at the boy's grave, and can be heard at night, crying pitifully.

IS THE WOMAN GUILTY?

THE QUESTION NOW BEFORE A FLOYD COUNTY JURY.

Mrs. Ora McKee on Trial for the Murder of Mrs. Wimpee—A Story in which $300 Plays a Part.

ROME, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The first case called for trial this morning was that of the state vs. Mrs. Ora McKee.

From the prominence of the parties involved, from the heinousness of the crime charged, and from the striking beauty of the fair prisoner, the deepest interest has centered around the case.

Mrs. Ora McKee was indicted by the grand jury for murder. It is alleged that she administered to Mrs. Matt Wimpee rat poison of the "Get There" brand, from the effects of which Mrs. Wimpee died.

THE PARTIES TO THE CASE.

Mrs. McKee is a strikingly handsome brunette, about twenty-four years old. Her maiden name was Miss Ora Buice. She resided in Rome several years before her marriage. Mr. and Mrs. McKee lived in DeSota in a very attractive home.

Mrs. Wimpee is of a large and well-known family, and was about forty years old. Mr. and Mrs. Wimpee lived on an adjoining lot from the McKee's.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE CASE.

Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Wimpee were next door neighbors, and the best of friends. The 22d of last September Mrs. McKee gave a dish of peaches to Mrs. Wimpee and immediately afterwards Mrs. Wimpee was taken violently ill. Neighbors were called in to set up during the night. Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Dietz sat up part of the night. Mrs. Wimpee desired some egg-nog during the night, and Mrs. McKee told Mrs. Dietz to go into an adjoining room and she would prepare it. Mrs. Wimpee declined the egg-nog, saying, "It was not fit to drink." Another glass was prepared, Mrs. McKee again telling Mrs. Dietz to go into an adjoining room, that she would prepare it. Again Mrs. Wimpee did not drink the draught, but asked Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Dietz to drink. Mrs. McKee declined for both.

The light in the room was taken out. Later in the night a noise was heard in the wardrobe where Mrs. Wimpee's valuables and papers were kept.

The morning light disclosed that a tin box was missing containing Mrs. McKee's notes to Mrs. Wimpee, amounting to $300.

Mrs. Dietz says Mrs. McKee acknowledged to her that she had taken the box because she thought Mrs. Wimpee was going to die, and she did not want anybody to know about her indebtedness. Mrs. Deitz told Mrs. McKee that if Mrs. Wimpee died she would certainly hang. That if she would tell what Mrs. Wimpee had taken the doctors might save her. Mrs. McKee replied that she had poisoned Mrs. Wimpee some two weeks ago by putting poison in peaches, and also in egg-nog. She said her object was to kill Mrs. Wimpee, and thus conceal her indebtedness.

The cause of the horrible affair, Mr. Wimpee said, was money.

Two days before Mrs. Wimpee died Mrs. McKee left the city.

THE SEARCH FOR THE MISSING WOMAN.

In vain did the officers search for Mrs. McKee. It was thought she was on her way to Cuba, but Mr. James B. Davis, a very skilful detective, followed her to Columbus and then with many stop-overs, to the middle of Florida, and at New Smyrna, 100 miles south of Jacksonville, she was arrested. Mrs. McKee was told that unless perfectly willing to return to Georgia she could not be compelled to without a requisition. She said, "Take me home for I am not guilty. It was through fright that I ever left. Everybody was so excited. That is why I ever left. I am not guilty." So Sheriff Moore, Mr. Davis and Mrs. McKee returned to Rome, on November 9th, and since that time she has been imprisoned behind the bars.

Varied are the opinions concerning this remarkable case, and while some think there is guilt beyond a doubt, yet there are some who believe in the innocence of the pretty prisoner, and that her vindication in this sad and deplorable affair will be spoken by the jury when a verdict is rendered.

The counsel for the state are Dabney & Fouche, Wright & Alexander and Solicitor General Nunnally; for the defense Dean & Smith, Judge Joel Branham and Seaborn Wright.

The Case in Court.

Long before the superior court had convened this morning, a great crowd had gathered in the little courthouse of Floyd county. The stairs were lined with eager spectators, and all the available room was completely filled.

A few minutes before 10 o'clock, Sheriff Moore, Mr. and Mrs. McKee and a sister were driven from the jail to the courthouse in an elegant landeau.

As Mrs. McKee entered the courtroom all eyes were turned towards her.

The spectators saw that prison life had not impaired the beauty of the prisoner.

Her countenance was cheerful, and she modestly met the gaze of the great throng of eager, curious eyes turned towards her.

Mrs. McKee was tastefully attired in a garnet-colored dress trimmed in black velvet, with hat and gloves to match. A pretty gray jacket with variegated cords was also worn.

A little blue-eyed girl, five or six years old, took her seat between Mr. and Mrs. McKee.

THE WOMAN IN COURT.

The little child remained in court and few there were who did not know but that she was the daughter. Chloe McKee is in Columbus, Ga., with an aunt.

But the crowd didn't know it.

Around Mrs. McKee sat her father and aged mother, her brother, Oscar Buice, her two sisters, Mrs. Hardin and Miss Ossie Buice and Mrs. Pouncey, from Atlanta.

As the city clock struck 10, Judge Maddox said, "What does the state say in the case of the State vs. Ora McKee?"

Colonel J. I. Wright responded: "We can safely announce we are ready." Mr. Dean, for the defense, announced ready.

The witnesses for the state were called, and there were nineteen names on the back of the true bill.

The defense has no subpenas on the docket as yet.

The plea of not guilty was signed by Colonel Wright, and the first panel of jurors were called.

The first three men of the panel were taken and then two more out of the first twelve. One juror was selected from the second twelve.

THE JURY SELECTED.

Out of sixty men the jury was selected, and is as follows:

1, John W. Brown; 2, Ransom Davis; 3, John M. Dremon; 4, W. M. Horton; 5, George C. Wyatt; 6, S. M. Gerry; 7, G. M. King; 8, W. S. Gibbons; 9, McWoodruff; 10, Thomas C. Weems; 11, Thomas H. Price; 12, W. A. Carr.

The jury is a fine body of men, many of them being leading citizens of the county.

About this time, Mrs. Julian Dietz, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Cox arrived. Upon Mrs. Dietz's testimony rests the state's greatest strength.

No perceptible emotion was displayed by Mrs. McKee when Mrs. Dietz entered. Mrs. McKee watches the proceedings with a close eye, and seems perfectly composed.

The witnesses for the defense were asked for by the solicitor. Mr. Dean asked till after dinner to furnish them; so court adjourned till 2 o'clock p. m.

The Court Gets Down to Work.

At 7 o'clock p. m. the court was called to order. The defense announced that they had no witnesses. All of the state's witnesses were put under the rule, with the exception of State Chemist Harry White, his testimony being only as an expert, and he was allowed to stay in the courtroom.

The bill of indictment was a long one, and required a great deal of time for Solicitor Nunnally to read. It covered twelve and a half pages of foolscap.

Mr. McHenry, for the state, explained to the jury more specifically what they expected to prove.

Mr. Dean, for the defense, stated the position of the defense, that a case would not be successfully made out by the state.

MR. WIMPEE TESTIFIES.

Mr. Matt Wimpee, husband of the deceased, was the first witness introduced.

Mr. Wimpee said that Mrs. Wimpee had taken sick on September 22d; that before that time she was in good health and at dinner time that day she was well and hearty. When he returned home from work that evening she was very sick. Mrs. McKee lived on the adjoining lot, the houses were some fifty or sixty feet apart. That from the sickness of the 22nd of September, Mrs. Wimpee never recovered. A physician was called on Tuesday. Thursday she grew worse. Thursday night, about 9 o'clock, Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Dietz came to his home to sit up with his wife. Mrs. McKee told him he had better go upstairs and rest. Next morning Mrs. Wimpee was very sick. Next morning a tin box containing his wife's papers were was missing.

"I sent for Mrs. McKee, she having gone home. She did not come. When she heard about sending for her husband she came over. My wife said: 'Miss Ora, my tin box is missing.'

"Mrs. McKee denied having taken it, but wheeled out of the door and went into the dining room. There she confessed having taken the box, and she would return it if Wimpee would say nothing about it. The box was returned. Mrs. McKee left for unknown parts Friday night, and Mrs. Wimpee died Sunday evening. Sheriff Moore brought her back. Mr. Wimpee said his cow died. He fed the cow on slops out of a pan outside the back door. A diagram of Wimpee's house was introduced.

HE IS CROSS-QUESTIONED.

On cross-examination, Mr. Wimpee said his family consisted of his wife, himself and two little girls. Mrs. Ponder and daughter boarded there. They cooked their meals on his stove, sometimes before he eat, and sometimes after.

"Where is Mrs. Ponder now, Mr. Wimpee," ked Mr. Dean.

"She left for Texas about the time my wife died," was the reply.

Mrs. Thompson came to Wimpee's house next morning after the egg-nog was given, and found some powder on the shelf.

Mr. Wimpee in reply to a question said Mrs. Wimpee vomited all Monday evening and night; that Mrs. Wimpee managed her own business affairs.

Here a question was asked Mr. Wimpee about the relations between him and his wife—if they had not separated or been divorced. The state objected, but afterwards consented.

Witness said some ten years ago there had been such a thing, but since that time it had been pleasant. Witness met Mrs. McKee at the divide fence and told her she was suspicioned. She denied the deed.

Witness had called on Mrs. McKee while in jail and said to her he was sorry this thing had happened, and he was sorry to see her in jail.

THE DOCTORS TESTIFY.

Dr. D. L. McCall was then introduced, and testified that he was called to see Mrs. Wimpee on Tuesday, the 23d of September. He thought she had a nervous headache, like a similar attack two or three weeks previous. Wednesday night he decided she was suffering from an irritant poison.

"I wanted a consultation. Dr. Hoyt was called in Friday." He agreed with witness that she was poisoned. Dr. T. M. Holmes was called in, and he agreed it was a case of poison.

The state then sought to have Mrs. Wimpee's statements to Dr. McCall in reference to the poison and her opinion as to what it was caused by, as part of the res gestæ.

Defense objected. The jury was retired to their room, and arguments consumed a good part of the evening. The judge said he wanted to hear arguments at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, and he would then decide. The jury was brought in.

Witness said that a part of the large intestines and the stomach of the deceased were put in a jar, and given to Mr. Richards to carry to Professor White.

At this time, nearly 5 o'clock, Court Stenographer Kiker was taken ill, and the court had to adjourn until 8:30 o'clock in the morning.

THE CROWDS PRESENT.

The crowd increases, and standing room is at a premium. This afternoon several ladies were in attendance, and had seats in the bar with the lawyers. Professor H. C. White arrived this morning, and will be an important witness for the state. Mr. Dean is leading counsel for the defense and Mr. McHenry for the state. It now looks as if the week will be consumed in the trial of this case alone. Colonel George Fry, from Chattanooga, arrived this evening, and will assist the defense. Captain C. Rowell and son are also for the defense. Seven lawyers represent the state and six the defense.

A THOUSAND POUNDS OF METAL THROWN

By the Explosion of a Grist Mill Boiler in Milledgeville—A Young Man Killed.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 30.—[Special.] Captain C. W. Ennis's grist mill, at the Georgia railroad depot, exploded today, and its thundering roar shook the city. Mr. Charles Ennis, the oldest son of the owner of the mill, was buried under the wreck and mangled beyond recognition.

INCIDENTS OF THE DISASTER.

The end of the millhouse was torn into threads, and adjoining property was more or less damaged. A piece of the boiler, estimated as weighing 1,000 pounds, was blown over the Milledgeville fertilizer works, over 200 yards away. Another piece of iron was sent with such force against the roof of the oilhouse that it crashed through the roof and floor. A brick was blown through a car-box 100 yards away, while a stray piece of iron tore up the roofing on the depot, fifty yards off.

THE CAUSE OF THE ACCIDENT.

The cause of the explosion is not definitely known, but is thought to have been a defect in the boiler. At the time of the explosion the boiler had two gauges of water, and only sixty pounds of steam. Young Ennis had stopped running to raise more steam, and was in the act of oiling the works when the explosion occurred. When the engine stopped the mill hands all went out to see an approaching train, so none of them were injured.

A STRANGE FEATURE.

A strange feature of the explosion was the escape of twenty-three hogs which were in a pen at the end of the boiler. They escaped without a scratch, while the pen was covered with iron, and everything else near was torn into splinters. The financial loss from the explosion will foot up above $1,000.

Mr Howell Peeples Promoted.—Mr. Howell Peeples, at present chief clerk in the division freight and passenger agent's office of the Richmond and Danville railroad, has been appointed soliciting freight agent for the road and will assume the duties of that position on April 1st. He is the youngest son of the late Judge Peeples, is one of the best known men in the city and has many friends who will be glad to hear that he has again been promoted.

Two Damage Suits.—There were two damage suits filed in the clerk's office yesterday. The first was George W. Watts vs. the Richmond and Danville railroad. He was a night watchman in the Georgia Pacific yards, and on February 21st, 1891, was knocked off the track and badly hurt while numbering cars. His suit is for $15,000.

Real Estate Sale Today.—Mr. John C. Hendrix will have a grand auction sale this afternoon at 3 o'clock in West End. He has nineteen beautiful shaded lots fronting on the Central railroad and near West End street car line that he will sell. These are choice lots.

Small Fire.—The department was called out at 3:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A defective flue in a small frame house on Fort street, near Wheat, caused the scare; no damage.

Spilled Whisky.—A distillery warehouse at Roupville, belonging to Z. M. Alman, burned to the ground, with its contents, Saturday night. In it were stored seven barrels of corn whisky. The total loss is estimated at $700; insured. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

A Journalistic Visitor.—Judge J. S. Peterson, one of Georgia's veteran journalists, now editor of The Piedmont Republican, at Jasper, is in Atlanta. Judge Peterson has at his tongue's end the marvelous story of the richness that is hid in north Georgia's mountains, and is doing good work for the development of that section of the state.

First Methodist Church.—The regular meeting of the quarterly conference of the First Methodist church was held last night in the study of the pastor. The usual routine work was done, nothing special coming before the conference.

They Didn't Kiss.—Mr. S. W. Aenchbacher objects to the expression used in the report of the dismissal of the case brought by him for the possession of his child—"They kissed and made up." He says "no such meeting or kissing occurred." But the case was dismissed and it is presumed there is peace in the Aenchbacher household.

HE WANTED $100,

And Will Be Prosecuted for an Alleged Statute Violation.

Napoleon B. Hill, of Union county, was yesterday brought before Clerk Fuller, of the circuit court, charged with a "high misdemeanor." His bond was fixed at $1,000, which he immediately furnished.

Hill is a pension lawyer. On July 10, 1889, he contracted with one R. U. Loftis, an old union soldier, whereby he was to prosecute a pension claim for Loftis. It is charged in the bill that he demanded $100 for his work, which is more than the United States statutes allow for such service.

The claim was pushed through and Loftis got his pension. He paid Hill $80, it is claimed, but refused to give him the $100 he demanded.

Hill's demand for $100 constitutes the high misdemeanor.

The Spring Medicine

"I feel very much indebted to Hood's Sarsaparilla, for I believe it is to the use of this medicine that I owe my present health. In the spring I got so completely run down that I could not eat or sleep, and all the dreaded diseases life seemed to have a mortgage on my system. I was obliged to abandon my work, and after seeking medical treatment and spending over $50 for different preparations, I found myself no better. Then my wife persuaded me to try a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before the first bottle was gone I began I have no amend. now used two bottles and have gained 22 pounds. Can eat anything without it hurting me; my dyspepsia and biliousness have gone. I never felt better in my life, am at work again and consider myself a well man. Those two bottles were worth $100 to me." W. V. EULOW, Lincoln, Ill.

THE SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED MONDAY, MARCH 30, 1891.

Reported for The Constitution by Peeples and Stevens, Reporters of the Supreme Court of Georgia.

Tim & Co. v. Franklin et al. Garnishment. Debtor and creditor. Fraud. Parties. Principal and surety. Practice. Before Judge Van Epps. City court of Atlanta.

Bleckley, C. J.—1. Assets to which a debtor has no title, legal or equitable, cannot be reached by his creditors through summons of garnishment. One who at his own expense and in his own name takes out a policy of insurance on the goods of another, owns the policy. Creditors who allege fraud in the transaction by way of traverse to an answer filed by the insurance company to a summons of garnishment, must set forth facts constituting fraud.

2. Where a policy of insurance is outstanding in the hands of the person to whom it was issued, a garnishment which seeks an adjudication that it is, and was from the beginning, the property of another person, is not sustainable against the company, the holder of the policy being a necessary party to such an adjudication.

(a) A surety on the bond given to dissolve a garnishment, is not a party to the garnishment suit save in his character of surety, and for the purposes of that relation only.

3. Is the striking of the plaintiff's traverse to the garnishee's answer such a judgment or decision as may be brought to the supreme court for review, whilst the garnishment is pending in the court below?

Judgment affirmed.
R. J. Jordan, for plaintiffs.
Weil & Goodwin and C. W. Smith, for defendants.

Moore Son & Co. v. Hill et al. Practice in Supreme Court.

Bleckley, C. J.—A judgment allowing garnishees to file their answer after default for not answering, is not final but leaves the garnishment still pending. The same is true of a failure or refusal of the court to sustain a motion by the plaintiff to dismiss a written statement filed by the garnishees, setting forth grounds of attack on the affidavit, bond and summons of garnishment. Complaints like these being matters for exception pendente lite only, a writ of error based on them alone, and not assigning error upon any judgment or decision final in its nature, will not be entertained. Code, §4250.

Writ of error dismissed.
Rosser & Carter, for plaintiffs.
Henry Jackson, for defendants.

Stewart v. Johnston, receiver. Bonds. Receivers. Practice. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke. Fulton superior court.

Bleckley, C. J.—An order of court, passed at the instance of one of the parties to a case in which a receiver has been appointed, requiring the receiver to give a new bond in the same amount and conditioned as his existing bond, will not operate after the new bond has been given to discharge the surety on the old bond from liability for future defaults of the receiver, but he will continue liable for defaults, past and future, as though no additional bond had been required or given; there being nothing in the order or in the attendant circumstances to indicate that the second bond was intended as a substitute for, rather than as supplemental to, the first.

Judgment affirmed.
H. L. Culberson and T. P. Westmoreland, for plaintiff in error.
Broyles & Sons, contra.

Rome Hotel Company v. Warlick, Wingate & Mell. Liens. Judgments. Contracts. Evidence. Charge of court. Verdict. Practice. Before Judge Maddox. Floyd superior court.

Simmons, J.—1. The plaintiffs claiming a lien for work and material specified in written contract, and for extra work and material for which there was no written contract and no agreed price, and the parties differing in their testimony as to what this price should be, that the verdict awards for the extra work less than is claimed is not cause for arresting the judgment on the ground that the verdict shows that the plaintiffs did not fully comply with their contract and were not, therefore, entitled to a lien.

2. Where the judge charges upon an issue as to the contract made in the evidence and first brought out on the cross-examination of a witness for the plaintiffs, there being no objection to the testimony and no motion to exclude it, the defendant cannot complain of the charge on the ground that parol testimony will not be received to vary a written contract and that the matter to which this evidence relates was merged in the writing.

3. Where it did not appear that when a contractor, mechanic, or material-man quit the work he engaged to do, the other party had failed or refused any payment when due, such stopping of the work, before compliance with the contract upon a mere apprehension or fear that he would not be paid at the time for payment, was unauthorized and defeated a claim of lien. Code, §1990. The plaintiffs have failed to complete their contract as to the extra work, simply on account of the fear that they would receive no compensation therefor, they are not entitled to a lien for so much of the extra work as they have done, but as to such work are merely entitled to a general judment upon a quantum meruit; and this only because the defendant received the benefit of the work. So far, therefore, as the verdict sets up a special lien for this extra work, it is erroneous, and to that extent the lien should be discharged.

4. The evidence being conflicting, the discretion of the trial judge in denying a new trial over the general grounds of the motion therefor will not be disturbed.

Judgment reversed, with direction.
Dabney & Fouche, for plaintiffs in error.
J. Branham, by brief, contra.

Falvey & Co., v. Richmond. Contracts. Carriers. Delivery. Practice. New trial. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke. Fulton superior court.

Simmons, J.—1. In a suit upon an open account for a balance due for goods, where the defendant claimed that they were worth only one cent per pound, but further testified that the contract was that he was to pay one and a half cents per pound, a verdict for the balance shown to be unpaid was not unauthorized.

2. If a purchaser residing in Atlanta, Georgia, and doing business there should order goods to be shipped to him from Virginia by a railroad company, and the vendor should deliver the goods to the company for that purpose, such delivery would in law be a delivery to the purchaser. 30 Ga. 450; 64 Ga. 576; 82 Ga. 27, 450; Benj. Sales (Bennett), §693: Newm. Sales, §146; Tied. Sales, §85. If the contract were that the vendor should deliver the goods in Atlanta, the delivery to the carrier would not be a delivery to the purchaser.

3. Where interrogatories of the plaintiff were inadvertently handed by his counsel to the jury as they retired and were not read or examined by any of the jury, who did not know they had the interrogatories until their return to the courtroom, when the matter was first brought to their notice, the inadvertence is not ground for a new trial. 72 Ga. 472; 67 Ga. 768.

Judgment affirmed.
Simmons & Corrigan, for plaintiffs in error.
Mason & Hill, contra.

Mills v. East Tenn., Va. & Ga. Railway Co. Nonsuit. Railroads. Master and servant. Negligence. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke. Fulton superior court.

Lumpkin, J.—Under the facts of this case, as disclosed by the record, it was error to grant a nonsuit.

Judgment reversed.
Arnold & Arnold and M. H. Blandford, for plaintiff.
A. O. Bacon and Dorsey, Brewster & Howell, for defendant.

TWO SUDDEN DEATHS.

Both Occur About the Same Hour Yesterday Evening.

Two negroes dropped dead yesterday.

One was a man and the other a woman.

Nettie Jackson was the woman's name. Who the man is has not been learned by the authorities.

About 6 o'clock yesterday evening a negro man who was passing along McDaniel street stopped at the house of Mr. Peck on the corner of Glenn and asked to be allowed to sit down awhile.

He said he was feeling very sick.

Mrs. Peck allowed the man to come in and sit down while she went across the street to Hayes's drug store for a physician.

Dr. Yeager responded, but when he arrived the man was dead.

The police were notified, and the ambulance was sent out, to bring the body to Undertaker Howard's establishment.

Efforts were made to find out the man's name, but without success.

Coroner Davis was notified, and an inquest will be held this morning.

Heart Disease Caused It.

Nettie Jackson, the negro woman who dropped dead, was in the employ of B. T. Paget who lives on Linden avenue, as cook.

Yesterday the woman did her work as usual, and about 6:30 o'clock went into the kitchen and sat down on a stool.

Mr. Paget's little boy was in the kitchen at the time. A few minutes after the woman sat down, the little boy ran into the sitting room and told his father to go out and see what was the matter with the cook.

Mr. Paget went out and found the woman dead, or rather found her just as she was gasping for a last breath.

It is thought that she died of heart disease.

The woman was about thirty-seven years of age, and leaves several children.

An inquest will be held today.

MR. STEWART HELD LIABLE.

The Tax Collector Foots the Bills for Knapp's Shortcomings.

A decision of interest was announced by the supreme court yesterday. The style of the case is Stewart vs. Johnson, receiver.

The question involved was whether or not Tax Collector Andy P. Stewart was to be held responsible—to an amount between $1,500 and $2,000—for the shortcomings of the defaulter, R. H. Knapp.

The verdict of the supreme court, affirming Judge Marshall Clarke's decision, is to hold Mr. Stewart responsible. The original bond, on which Mr. Stewart was surety, was supplemented—not replaced—by the other bond, which was a forgery.

IN THE CRIMINAL COURT.

A Number of Small Cases Disposed of Yesterday.

Judge Richard H. Clark disposed of a number of cases in the criminal branch of Fulton superior court, which convened yesterday.

Tom Green, who stole a number of overcoats in the courthouse, some time ago, was convicted and sentenced to the chaingang for twelve months.

He is a regular kleptomaniac, and has been through the mill. He had just been released from the chaingang when he committed this last crime.

There were a number of other criminals who pleaded guilty and were sent up for various terms.

Scrofula Is Bad.

For all forms and variations of scrofula, which stands next to contagious blood poison in the problems that it presents, S. S. S. is a specific. As a remedy for this disease, it stands pre-eminent and incomparable. Where the ordinary treatment fails—and it does fail in nine cases out of ten—S. S. S. will effect a cure. Some of the testimonials that the proprietors have on file, and others which they include in their pamphlets, describe cures that are almost miraculous. No higher tributes could be paid to the singular efficacy of this medicine than those which are embodied in these unsolicited letters. The suffering that has been saved by S. S. S. in these cases alone would place it at the head of all blood medicines.

"Rip Van Winkle."

Next Friday and Saturday, at night and matinee, Atlanta will see "Rip Van Winkle" in a new light. It is a spectacular production, entirely novel on our stage, and which was thus appreciated by The Danville, Ill., Daily News:

"The opera season opened last night at the Grand by the presentation of 'Rip Van Winkle,' a superb lyric and scenic production of Washington Irving's idyl of the Katkills. The house was crowded and the performance even better than the most sanguine expected."

Rip is personated by J. W. Carnes, a character actor of some mark, but new to our stage. Among the artists are two phenomenal little actresses, Lillie and Edna Graham, who obtain everywhere a real artistic triumph, and raise an enthusiasm never witnessed in the south. So say the Charleston News and Courier and The Savannah News.

SPRING FEVER.

At this time of the year the blood changes, its circulation is sluggish and the system is not properly nourished. The result is loss of appetite, weakness, an oppressive feeling of fullness, too hot, and Oh! so tired. To cure and prevent Spring Fever take Simmons Liver Regulator. All nature is now waking and everybody should invigorate the liver, kidneys and bowels with Simmons Liver Regulator and they would not have so much biliousness, headache, dyspepsia and malaria all the rest of the year. You would not expect a plant to work off a winter's decay and bloom as good as ever without attention in the Spring. Don't expect it of your system. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

AT THE THEATER.

Ed Rice's "Corsair" was the attraction last night. Who knows Ed Rice without associating him with the best of extravaganzas—the prettiest of girls—the sweetest of music? Last night was no exception to the excellence of Mr. Rice's productions, and the audiance, which was large, fully appreciated the performance. The "Corsair" is a burlesque on the order of "Evangeline," but much better in every respect. The show last night was not only good, it was one of the best performances that DeGive's house has offered this season. It is useless to describe the plot—there was none—but the play way full of absurd situations, full of beautiful scenery, full of pretty women, full of catchy music. Miss Tannehill, as Conrad, the corsair, was excellent. She has a strong voice. Miss Wells, as Medora, is pretty and has a sweet voice, though hardly equal to the demands of stage music, though she received a recall to her song, "Once Upon a Time There Lived a Maiden." The commedians, Messrs. Udell, Tarr and Hagan, were good, particularly Mr. Hagan.

The play last night attracted a crowded house, as it will doubtless this afternoon at the matinee and tonight.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—To the Superior Court of Said County: The petition of John Stephens, D. G. Wylie, James F. O'Neill, M. C. Stoner, R. N. Hardeman, Paul Faver, D. P. Stewart and R. D. Mann shows that they have associated themselves under the name of "The Atlanta Mining and Stock Exchange," and they desire to be incorporated by and under that name, and as a corporation, to exercise all the rights, powers and privileges hereinafter set forth or that may be exercised by such a corporation under the laws of the state of Georgia.

The object for which said corporation is formed and incorporated is for the purpose of maintaining a mining and stock exchange in the city of Atlanta, for the mutual convenience of those engaged in the business of dealing in mines and mining stocks and other securities in said city or elsewhere and for the purpose of gain.

In the conduct of said business they desire to be empowered to buy, exchange, sell, barter, take options on all kinds of mining property; to exchange mineral property for all kinds and classes of property, whether the same belong to this company or to other companies or individuals placing the same with this company for exchange or sale; to receive from other companies or individuals mining property for exchange or sale and to charge commissions for service in effecting the same; to deal in, sell and exchange all kinds of stocks and bonds; to receive the same in payment for properties of their own or of other companies or individuals, and to assign the same in payment for purchases made by themselves or others; to open up, test, and, if necessary, operate any mining property belonging to them or placed in their hands by others, and to do any and all things necessary in such examination and operation; to make, issue and sell, on such property as they may own, the company's own general and special debenture bonds or other obligations, upon such terms and in such amounts as may be deemed advisable, based on said property and secured by such trust deeds, mortgages or other conveyances, general or special, as may be necessary, and said company may limit its liability upon its own or the bonds and obligations of others, whether corporation, partnership or individual, endorsed or guaranteed by it, by express stipulation on the face or in the endorsement or guaranty thereof; to act, through its officers, president and secretary, as attorney in fact for any corporation, partnership or individual in the transfer of real or personal property, and to have the right to act as fiscal agent for any corporation for negotiating, issuing, registering and countersigning bonds, certificates of stock or other obligations, and to guarantee the payment of such bonds, certificates, obligations on the interest thereon; to operate and maintain a mining and stock exchange in the city of Atlanta with such branches elsewhere as may be deemed advisable, and to frame and adopt a constitution and to make such by-laws as may be deemed proper for the management of the affairs of this corporation; to have the privilege of doing any act or thing in connection therewith that a natural person could, not prohibited to corporations, including the right to receive payments to the capital stock of the corporation in any kind of property that the corporation may be authorized to deal in; to sue and be sued; to have and use a common seal.

The amount of capital stock to be employed by them, 10 per cent. of which is paid in, is fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), with the privilege of increasing the same, in manner to be prescribed by the by-laws of said corporation to any sum not exceeding $500,000 dollars, divided in shares of the par value of $100 per share.

Their principal place of business to be in the city of Atlanta, said county, with the privilege of maintaining agencies elsewhere.

They desire to be incorporated for the term of twenty years.

Therefore they pray that they, their associates, successors and assigns may be incorporated by and in the name of "The Atlanta Mining and Stock Exchange" for the period of twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that time, with all the rights, powers and privileges herein before set forth, or that may be exercised by such a corporation under the laws of the state of Georgia, and your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.—To the Superior Court of said County: The petition of Robert Walter Wilson, of the city of London, England, R. Usher Thomason, of the county of Morgan, in said state, and J. H. Lofton, of the county of Fulton, in said state, shows that they desire for themselves and their associates, successors and assigns, to be duly incorporated and made a body corporate under the corporate name of

"THE GEORGIA COMPANY."

The objects of said corporation are pecuniary gain and profit for its stockholders, and to this end they propose to carry on the particular business of buying, renting and leasing all kinds of property, real, personal and mixed, of improving the same in such manner as may be deemed best, of selling, leasing or renting such property, on such terms as may be agreed upon, of building roads, drives, turnpikes and other ways of travel, of owning or leasing waterworks, with power to lay down all mains and pipes deemed necessary in connection therewith, and to sell, rent or lease, such waterworks or water privileges, to use such water, for any purpose whatever, of building, owning or leasing all necessary works for generating gas or electricity, with power to purchase and hold all machinery therefor, lay down all mains in connection therewith, and to erect all lines therefor, and the right to use and furnish the same as a motive power, or for illumination, to any person whomsoever, on such terms as may be agreed upon, of constructing and building railroads, canals, mills, factories, houses of all kinds, street railroads, bridges, depots and culverts, and other public works, with the power to make all contracts therefor, of leasing and operating any railroad or street railroad, and to prepare and deal in lumber of every style and shape that may be deemed desirable; to buy and manufacture and deal in such material, article, or any article or thing made from such material; and to act as agents for any individual, firm or corporation; to act as shipowners or shipping agents.

The capital stock of said company will be four hundred thousand dollars, divided into shares of the par value of one hundred dollars each, with the power to increase the same from time to time to any amount not exceeding two million dollars.

The chief office of said company will be in the city of Atlanta, said county, and the place of doing its business as aforesaid will be in the county of Fulton, but it is expressly desired that said corporation shall have full power and authority to transact business as aforesaid in any county in this state, or elsewhere, within or without the state, and also to have branch offices in any such other place, or places, as may be deemed best.

Petitioners pray that said corporation shall have all powers set forth in the code and the laws of this state incident to such corporations, and also have full power to borrow money, make notes, issue bonds, script and other evidences of indebtedness, to secure the same by mortgage, deed of trust, or in such other manner as may be deemed best; to lend all or any part of the moneys of said company to such person, persons, or corporation or corporations, with or without security, upon such terms as from time to time may be deemed advisable.

Wherefore, petitioners pray that this petition be filed in the office of the clerk of said court, be there recorded and then published as required by law, and that the court will then pass an order incorporating them under the corporate name aforesaid, for the full term of twenty years, with the right of renewal, with full power to carry on such business as aforesaid, and to exercise all powers necessary to successfully accomplish the objects of said corporation.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

THE SUPREME COURT.

DECISIONS RENDERED MONDAY, MARCH 30, 1891.

Reported for The Constitution by Peeples and Stevens, Reporters of the Supreme Court of Georgia.

Tim & Co. v. Franklin et al. Garnishment. Debtor and creditor. Fraud. Parties. Principal and surety. Practice. Before Judge Van Epps. City court of Atlanta.

Bleckley, C. J.—1. Assets to which a debtor has no title, legal or equitable, cannot be reached by his creditors through summons of garnishment. One who at his own expense and in his own name takes out a policy of insurance on the goods of another, owns the policy. Creditors who allege fraud in the transaction by way of traverse to an answer filed by the insurance company to a summons of garnishment, must set forth facts constituting fraud.

2. Where a policy of insurance is outstanding in the hands of the person to whom it was issued, a garnishment which seeks an adjudication that it is, and was from the beginning, the property of another person, is not sustainable against the company, the holder of the policy being a necessary party to such an adjudication.

(a) A surety on the bond given to dissolve a garnishment, is not a party to the garnishment suit save in his character of surety, and for the purposes of that relation only.

3. Is the striking of the plaintiff's traverse to the garnishee's answer such a judgment or decision as may be brought to the supreme court for review, whilst the garnishment is pending in the court below?

Judgment affirmed.
R. J. Jordan, for plaintiffs.
Weil & Goodwin and C. W. Smith, for defendants.

Moore Son & Co. v. Hill et al. Practice in Supreme Court.

Bleckley, C. J.—A judgment allowing garnishees to file their answer after default for not answering, is not final but leaves the garnishment still pending. The same is true of a failure or refusal of the court to sustain a motion by the plaintiff to dismiss a written statement filed by the garnishees, setting forth grounds of attack on the affidavit, bond and summons of garnishment. Complaints like these being matters for exception pendente lite only, a writ of error based on them alone, and not assigning error upon any judgment or decision final in its nature, will not be entertained. Code, §4250.

Writ of error dismissed.
Rosser & Carter, for plaintiffs.
Henry Jackson, for defendants.

Stewart v. Johnston, receiver. Bonds. Receivers. Practice. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke. Fulton superior court.

Bleckley, C. J.—An order of court, passed at the instance of one of the parties to a case in which a receiver has been appointed, requiring the receiver to give a new bond in the same amount and conditioned as his existing bond, will not operate after the new bond has been given to discharge the surety on the old bond from liability for future defaults of the receiver, but he will continue liable for defaults, past and future, as though no additional bond had been required or given; there being nothing in the order or in the attendant circumstances to indicate that the second bond was intended as a substitute for, rather than as supplemental to, the first.

Judgment affirmed.
H. L. Culberson and T. P. Westmoreland, for plaintiff in error.
Broyles & Sons, contra.

Rome Hotel Company v. Warlick, Wingate & Mell. Liens. Judgments. Contracts. Evidence. Charge of court. Verdict. Practice. Before Judge Maddox. Floyd superior court.

Simmons, J.—1. The plaintiffs claiming a lien for work and material specified in written contract, and for extra work and material for which there was no written contract and no agreed price, and the parties differing in their testimony as to what this price should be, that the verdict awards for the extra work less than is claimed is not cause for arresting the judgment on the ground that the verdict shows that the plaintiffs did not fully comply with their contract and were not, therefore, entitled to a lien.

2. Where the judge charges upon an issue as to the contract made in the evidence and first brought out on the cross-examination of a witness for the plaintiffs, there being no objection to the testimony and no motion to exclude it, the defendant cannot complain of the charge on the ground that parol testimony will not be received to vary a written contract and that the matter to which this evidence relates was merged in the writing.

3. Where it did not appear that when a contractor, mechanic, or material-man quit the work he engaged to do, the other party had failed or refused any payment when due, such stopping of the work, before compliance with the contract upon a mere apprehension or fear that he would not be paid at the time for payment, was unauthorized and defeated a claim of lien. Code, §1990. The plaintiffs have failed to complete their contract as to the extra work, simply on account of the fear that they would receive no compensation therefor, they are not entitled to a lien for so much of the extra work as they have done, but as to such work are merely entitled to a general judment upon a quantum meruit; and this only because the defendant received the benefit of the work. So far, therefore, as the verdict sets up a special lien for this extra work, it is erroneous, and to that extent the lien should be discharged.

4. The evidence being conflicting, the discretion of the trial judge in denying a new trial over the general grounds of the motion therefor will not be disturbed.

Judgment reversed, with direction.
Dabney & Fouche, for plaintiffs in error.
J. Branham, by brief, contra.

Falvey & Co., v. Richmond. Contracts. Carriers. Delivery. Practice. New trial. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke. Fulton superior court.

Simmons, J.—1. In a suit upon an open account for a balance due for goods, where the defendant claimed that they were worth only one cent per pound, but further testified that the contract was that he was to pay one and a half cents per pound, a verdict for the balance shown to be unpaid was not unauthorized.

2. If a purchaser residing in Atlanta, Georgia, and doing business there should order goods to be shipped to him from Virginia by a railroad company, and the vendor should deliver the goods to the company for that purpose, such delivery would in law be a delivery to the purchaser. 30 Ga. 450; 64 Ga. 576; 82 Ga. 27, 450; Benj. Sales (Bennett), §693: Newm. Sales, §146; Tied. Sales, §85. If the contract were that the vendor should deliver the goods in Atlanta, the delivery to the carrier would not be a delivery to the purchaser.

3. Where interrogatories of the plaintiff were inadvertently handed by his counsel to the jury as they retired and were not read or examined by any of the jury, who did not know they had the interrogatories until their return to the courtroom, when the matter was first brought to their notice, the inadvertence is not ground for a new trial. 72 Ga. 472; 67 Ga. 768.

Judgment affirmed.
Simmons & Corrigan, for plaintiffs in error.
Mason & Hill, contra.

TWO SUDDEN DEATHS.

Both Occur About the Same Hour Yesterday Evening.

Two negroes dropped dead yesterday.

One was a man and the other a woman.

Nettie Jackson was the woman's name. Who the man is has not been learned by the authorities.

About 6 o'clock yesterday evening a negro man who was passing along McDaniel street stopped at the house of Mr. Peck on the corner of Glenn and asked to be allowed to sit down awhile.

He said he was feeling very sick.

Mrs. Peck allowed the man to come in and sit down while she went across the street to Hayes's drug store for a physician.

Dr. Yeager responded, but when he arrived the man was dead.

The police were notified, and the ambulance was sent out, to bring the body to Undertaker Howard's establishment.

Efforts were made to find out the man's name, but without success.

Coroner Davis was notified, and an inquest will be held this morning.

Heart Disease Caused It.

Nettie Jackson, the negro woman who dropped dead, was in the employ of B. T. Paget who lives on Linden avenue, as cook.

Yesterday the woman did her work as usual, and about 6:30 o'clock went into the kitchen and sat down on a stool.

Mr. Paget's little boy was in the kitchen at the time. A few minutes after the woman sat down, the little boy ran into the sitting room and told his father to go out and see what was the matter with the cook.

Mr. Paget went out and found the woman dead, or rather found her just as she was gasping for a last breath.

It is thought that she died of heart disease.

The woman was about thirty-seven years of age, and leaves several children.

An inquest will be held today.

MR. STEWART HELD LIABLE.

The Tax Collector Foots the Bills for Knapp's Shortcomings.

A decision of interest was announced by the supreme court yesterday. The style of the case is Stewart vs. Johnson, receiver.

The question involved was whether or not Tax Collector Andy P. Stewart was to be held responsible—to an amount between $1,500 and $2,000—for the shortcomings of the defaulter, R. H. Knapp.

The verdict of the supreme court, affirming Judge Marshall Clarke's decision, is to hold Mr. Stewart responsible. The original bond, on which Mr. Stewart was surety, was supplemented—not replaced—by the other bond, which was a forgery.

IN THE CRIMINAL COURT.

A Number of Small Cases Disposed of Yesterday.

Judge Richard H. Clark disposed of a number of cases in the criminal branch of Fulton superior court, which convened yesterday.

Tom Green, who stole a number of overcoats in the courthouse, some time ago, was convicted and sentenced to the chaingang for twelve months.

He is a regular kleptomaniac, and has been through the mill. He had just been released from the chaingang when he committed this last crime.

There were a number of other criminals who pleaded guilty and were sent up for various terms.

Scrofula Is Bad.

For all forms and variations of scrofula, which stands next to contagious blood poison in the problems that it presents, S. S. S. is a specific. As a remedy for this disease, it stands pre-eminent and incomparable. Where the ordinary treatment fails—and it does fail in nine cases out of ten—S. S. S. will effect a cure. Some of the testimonials that the proprietors have on file, and others which they include in their pamphlets, describe cures that are almost miraculous. No higher tributes could be paid to the singular efficacy of this medicine than those which are embodied in these unsolicited letters. The suffering that has been saved by S. S. S. in these cases alone would place it at the head of all blood medicines.

From an Atlanta Drummer.

Mr. A. K. Hawkes, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: You doubtless remember me getting a glass of you nearly three weeks ago. I had then given up all hopes of ever being able to read again. The last three weeks, however, with the use of your glasses, my eyes have been wonderfully benefitted, and I have been enabled to do a great deal of reading, the first I had done in two years, and moreover I have great hopes of their entire recovery in a few years. I cannot too highly recommend your glasses to my friends. Yours respectfully, E. C. Callaway, with Moore, Marsh & Co.

"Rip Van Winkle."

Next Friday and Saturday, at night and matinee, Atlanta will see "Rip Van Winkle" in a new light. It is a spectacular production, entirely novel on our stage, and which was thus appreciated by The Danville, Ill., Daily News:

"The opera season opened last night at the Grand by the presentation of 'Rip Van Winkle,' a superb lyric and scenic production of Washington Irving's idyl of the Katkills. The house was crowded and the performance even better than the most sanguine expected."

Rip is personated by J. W. Carnes, a character actor of some mark, but new to our stage. Among the artists are two phenomenal little actresses, Lillie and Edna Graham, who obtain everywhere a real artistic triumph, and raise an enthusiasm never witnessed in the south. So say the Charleston News and Courier and The Savannah News.

SPRING FEVER.

At this time of the year the blood changes, its circulation is sluggish and the system is not properly nourished. The result is loss of appetite, weakness, an oppressive feeling of fullness, too hot, and Oh! so tired. To cure and prevent Spring Fever take Simmons Liver Regulator. All nature is now waking and everybody should invigorate the liver, kidneys and bowels with Simmons Liver Regulator and they would not have so much biliousness, headache, dyspepsia and malaria all the rest of the year. You would not expect a plant to work off a winter's decay and bloom as good as ever without attention in the Spring. Don't expect it of your system. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

AT THE THEATER.

Ed Rice's "Corsair" was the attraction last night. Who knows Ed Rice without associating him with the best of extravagansas—the prettiest of girls—the sweetest of music? Last night was no exception to the excellence of Mr. Rice's productions, and the audience, which was large, fully appreciated the performance. The "Corsair" is a burlesque on the order of "Evangeline," but much better in every respect. The show last night was not only good, it was one of the best performances that DeGive's house has offered this season. It is useless to describe the plot—there was none—but the play way full of absurd situations, full of beautiful scenery, full of pretty women, full of catchy music. Miss Tannehill, as Conrad, the corsair, was excellent. She has a strong voice. Miss Wells, as Medora, is pretty and has a sweet voice, though hardly equal to the demands of stage music, though she received a recall to her song, "Once Upon a Time There Lived a Maiden." The commedians, Messrs. Udell, Tarr and Hagan, were good, particularly Mr. Hagan.

The play last night attracted a crowded house, as it will doubtless this afternoon at the matinee and tonight.

The object for which said corporation is formed and incorporated is for the purpose of maintaining a mining and stock exchange in the city of Atlanta, for the mutual convenience of those engaged in the business of dealing in mines and mining stocks and other securities in said city or elsewhere and for the purpose of gain.

In the conduct of said business they desire to be empowered to buy, exchange, sell, barter, take options on all kinds of mining property; to exchange mineral property for all kinds and classes of property, whether the same belong to this company or to other companies or individuals placing the same with this company for exchange or sale; to receive from other companies or individuals mining property for exchange or sale and to charge commissions for service in effecting the same; to deal in, sell and exchange all kinds of stocks and bonds; to receive the same in payment for properties of their own or of other companies or individuals, and to assign the same in payment for purchases made by themselves or others; to open up, test, and, if necessary, operate any mining property belonging to them or placed in their hands by others, and to do any and all things necessary in such examination and operation; to make, issue and sell, on such property as they may own, the company's own general and special debenture bonds or other obligations, upon such terms and in such amounts as may be deemed advisable, based on said property and secured by such trust deeds, mortgages or other conveyances, general or special, as may be necessary, and said company may limit its liability upon its own or the bonds and obligations of others, whether corporation, partnership or individual, endorsed or guaranteed by it, by express stipulation on the face or in the endorsement or guaranty thereof; to act, through its officers, president and secretary, as attorney in fact for any corporation, partnership or individual in the transfer of real or personal property, and to have the right to act as fiscal agent for any corporation for negotiating, issuing, registering and countersigning bonds, certificates of stock or other obligations, and to guarantee the payment of such bonds, certificates, obligations on the interest thereon; to operate and maintain a mining and stock exchange in the city of Atlanta with such branches elsewhere as may be deemed advisable, and to frame and adopt a constitution and to make such by-laws as may be deemed proper for the management of the affairs of this corporation; to have the privilege of doing any act or thing in connection therewith that a natural person could, not prohibited to corporations, including the right to receive payments to the capital stock of the corporation in any kind of property that the corporation may be authorized to deal in; to sue and be sued; to have and use a common seal.

The amount of capital stock to be employed by them, 10 per cent. of which is paid in, is fifty thousand dollars ($50,000), with the privilege of increasing the same, in manner to be prescribed by the by-laws of said corporation to any sum not exceeding $500,000 dollars, divided in shares of the par value of $100 per share.

Their principal place of business to be in the city of Atlanta, said county, with the privilege of maintaining agencies elsewhere.

They desire to be incorporated for the term of twenty years.

Therefore they pray that they, their associates, successors and assigns may be incorporated by and in the name of "The Atlanta Mining and Stock Exchange" for the period of twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that time, with all the rights, powers and privileges herein before set forth, or that may be exercised by such a corporation under the laws of the state of Georgia, and your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.—To the Superior Court of said County: The petition of Robert Walter Wilson, of the city of London, England, R. Usher Thomason, of the county of Morgan, in said state, and J. H. Lofton, of the county of Fulton, in said state, shows that they desire for themselves and their associates, successors and assigns, to be duly incorporated and made a body corporate under the corporate name of

The objects of said corporation are pecuniary gain and profit for its stockholders, and to this end they propose to carry on the particular business of buying, renting and leasing all kinds of property, real, personal and mixed, of improving the same in such manner as may be deemed best, of selling, leasing or renting such property, on such terms as may be agreed upon, of building roads, drives, turnpikes and other ways of travel, of owning or leasing waterworks, with power to lay down all mains and pipes deemed necessary in connection therewith, and to sell, rent or lease, such waterworks or water privileges, to use such water, for any purpose whatever, of building, owning or leasing all necessary works for generating gas or electricity, with power to purchase and hold all machinery therefor, lay down all mains in connection therewith, and to erect all lines therefor, and the right to use and furnish the same as a motive power, or for illumination, to any person whomsoever, on such terms as may be agreed upon, of constructing and building railroads, canals, mills, factories, houses of all kinds, street railroads, bridges, depots and culverts, and other public works, with the power to make all contracts therefor, of leasing and operating any railroad or street railroad, and to prepare and deal in lumber of every style and shape that may be deemed desirable; to buy and manufacture and deal in such material, article, or any article or thing made from such material; and to act as agents for any individual, firm or corporation; to act as shipowners or shipping agents.

The capital stock of said company will be four hundred thousand dollars, divided into shares of the par value of one hundred dollars each, with the power to increase the same from time to time to any amount not exceeding two million dollars.

The chief office of said company will be in the city of Atlanta, said county, and the place of doing its business as aforesaid will be in the county of Fulton, but it is expressly desired that said corporation shall have full power and authority to transact business as aforesaid in any county in this state, or elsewhere, within or without the state, and also to have branch offices in any such other place, or places, as may be deemed best.

Petitioners pray that said corporation shall have all powers set forth in the code and the laws of this state incident to such corporations, and also have full power to borrow money, make notes, issue bonds, script and other evidences of indebtedness, to secure the same by mortgage, deed of trust, or in such other manner as may be deemed best; to lend all or any part of the moneys of said company to such person, persons, or corporation or corporations, with or without security, upon such terms as from time to time may be deemed advisable.

Wherefore, petitioners pray that this petition be filed in the office of the clerk of said court, be there recorded and then published as required by law, and that the court will then pass an order incorporating them under the corporate name aforesaid, for the full term of twenty years, with the right of renewal, with full power to carry on such business as aforesaid, and to exercise all powers necessary to successfully accomplish the objects of said corporation.

And your petitioners will ever pray.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 31, 1891.

Mr. Stanley's Lecture.

Mr. Henry M. Stanley's visit to Atlanta is an event of no ordinary importance. One does not see such men once in a generation and only a few cities in the country have heard him tell what no one else can tell—the story of the dark continent.

It is impossible to overestimate the importance of the part Africa will play in the great affairs of the coming generation. The great powers of Europe all have their stakes set in Africa, and there are yet to be met and conquered the Moslem hosts that in the middle ages almost overran Europe, and for a time waged desperate war with Christian chivalry. When the frenzied hosts of the Mahdi had annihilated two armies, one under an English general, Chinese Gordon, one of the grandest men of the century staked his life on the effort to calm those perturbed spirits and lost it. It was from these fanatics that Stanley went to rescue Emin Pasha; and after tearing his way for six months through the deadly jungle of an African forest, he succeeded.

But, what is of greater moment—for they are there for all time—the magnificent resources of a strange dark continent are made to appear. Alone in the darkness of superstition, opulence of this dark continent flashes out in the ghastly light of conflagration and sanguinary struggle. The very footsteps of exploration are traced in the bloody marks of suffering and death. Where nature, superb in her royal richness, has prepared a peerless empire for man, and sighs impatiently at his long delay, a benighted intellect reels upon her throne, drunk in blood and superstition, groping helplessly in darkness, but stretching out feeble hands toward the light of advancing civilization. A new continent, greater than ours is about to be opened to the world, and who can tell the result? Where will the restless tide of immigration go now, and where will its wild waves be stayed? We have heard of the coming of the homeless of all nations to our soil, and we have looked to find them places among us, but what will we say of Africa, the great, the opulent, the unknown? In the coming years we must make new calculations for commerce; we must take account of new and unknown resources in this terra incognita. African wood and iron, African fruits and cereals, African cotton and African fabrics we must be prepared to meet in the markets of the world, and if our merchants are wise, they will be up and doing for African trade. Before the war yankee-skippers made fortunes by carrying cargoes to the gold coast and Stanley says they may do even better now. It is a great unknown field of vast possibilities.

No man in this generation can tell us so much of this new continent as Henry M. Stanley. He will be with us Thursday, and it is not likely that we will ever see him again. In a few days he will sail for England, and then, perhaps, after a season of rest, plunge into the dark continent again. He is in the prime of life, but his hair is white from desperate struggles in the nocuous jungle and the arid desert. The light spirit and the knight-errantry of youth are gone. He plunged into Africa a young man, he has given the best years of his life to its exploration, he has faced death many times, he has triumphed over hardship, mutiny and disease. Though a soldier of fortune, Henry M. Stanley never faltered under fire, and he has undergone in the wilds of Africa trials and dangers which his critics would shudder to think of. How puerile it is, after thirty years, to lay up treasures of vindictiveness against a man who has done such splendid service for the world at large!

It is gratifying to know that, after accepting the invitation of the Young Men's Library and the governor of Georgia, Mr. Stanley will be greeted by a great audience of the best people of the city and state.

The Color Line in the North.

For the first time in her history the city of Brooklyn has a negro policeman.

When the appointment was made, a few days ago, trouble was predicted, and it has panned out just that way.

No charge of bad character or bad conduct is alleged, but the new officer's color does not suit [illegible]. The man is a clever negro, a good church member, and a well-educated citizen, but he has a black skin, and the other members of the force have boycotted him.

The Brooklyn police will not stay in the same barrack room with their colored comrade. They will not speak to him nor aid him in his duties.

Some of the republican papers in New York and Brooklyn are boiling over with rage. They have urged the authorities to interfere, and under threats of dismissal, some of the white policemen now sleep in the barrack room with their unwelcome mate, but others still hold out. The trouble is not ended yet.

Just such little incidents occur from time to time in every northern state. They require no comment. If the northern people draw the color line so rigidly when they have only a few negroes in their midst, what would they do if they had 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 blacks among them?

A Conspiracy Exposed.

We publish today a dispatch from our Washington correspondent, which gives the inside history of a political conspiracy which is as infamous as it is surprising. It will be read with interest, not unmixed with indignation by the friends of Mr. Crisp in Georgia, and, indeed, by democrats throughout the country.

It is a conspiracy plain and simple, and when we consider the source from whence it comes, its origin and subsequent unfolding, it becomes more and more a matter of surprise.

That The St. Louis Republic, a democratic newspaper, should lend its columns to blackmail and abuse; that it should conspire against the best men in the democratic party and seek to cripple the influence of a man like Charles F. Crisp, is matter for wonder, indignation and contempt among all good democrats.

The true inwardness of the conspiracy against Mr. Crisp is so fully set forth in the article from our Washington correspondent that it needs nothing in this column but the emphasis of the condemnation it deserves. It is an infamous scheme which will fail utterly. Mr. Crisp is a man above reproach. He has towered above men in advocating the interests of the democratic party, and the interests of the people at large. His record shines with good deeds and brilliant achievements; he is one of the first democrats of the country whose reputation is safe from the slanders of his enemies. The conspiracy which this St. Louis newspaper has countenanced cannot injure him, though personal and political injury is its object.

Slander loves a shining mark, and The Republic has it in Mr. Crisp. To prove the infamy of The Republic's conspiracy, we have only to quote one paragraph from an article that appeared in that paper recently. Here it is: "The next speaker of the house will be a tariff reformer who does not believe in levying taxes, or in adjusting them to promote incidental larceny, and his name will not be Crisp."

That is the way The Republic pelts its political mud; but it will not stick. The prediction about a Crisp-Hill-Gorman combine will not help the conspirators, but, on the contrary, all this political scheming and abuse will react and hold them up to public indignation and contempt.

But we repeat that the part played in the conspiracy by The St. Louis Republic is unworthy of a democratic newspaper; it is mean; it is contemptible. Charles F. Crisp will yet confound all conspirators against him, whether democratic or republican!

Tax the Big Incomes.

At the recent Springfield jubilee over the election of John M. Palmer to the United States senate, Congressman Mansur made a notable speech, in which he presented some strong arguments in favor of the income tax.

Mr. Mansur takes it for granted that tariff reform is coming. It will, of course, greatly reduce federal revenues, and in order to meet the ordinary expenses of the government and the demands of the pension system he suggests the income tax.

For many years wealth has escaped federal taxation. The rich man if he consumes no more than the poor man pays no more tax to the government. The revenue laws are framed in the interest of the wealthy, and exempt them from the just burdens of taxation. The remedy is the income tax. It is a necessity, or the farmers will never better their condition. Until we have it all tariff and financial reform will be a mere sham.

No matter if the tax is odious. All taxes are odious to some people. This tax will be just. It will follow the system of the states, counties and municipalities, under which wealth is taxed—under which the man who is worth ten or a hundred times more than his neighbor pays taxes in proportion. As matters stand at present wealth escapes federal taxation, and contributes nothing to the government.

With an income tax, the farmers and masses of the people generally will get rid of the depressing effects of the most unjust and unequal system of taxation that any country ever endured in modern times. It is unnecessary to say that these points in Mr. Mansur's speech received the hearty endorsement of his hearers.

A Shriek from Joseph Cook.

The Rev. Joseph Cook, of Boston, shows that age cannot wither, nor custom stale, his infinite malignity.

In an interview in St. Louis, last Saturday, Mr. Cook told a reporter that the south, in proportion to its population, had three times as much power as the north in the representative departments of the government. He charged that this was due to the political suppression and personal serfdom of the negroes.

The Boston preacher complained that the new south was only the old south intensified in its bitterness. The remedy, he thought, was national education under federal supervision.

We have seen so much of this stuff in northern partisan journals that it no longer stirs our wrath. As General Toombs used to say, public indignation has become fatigued.

But Mr. Cook said one thing to the St. Louis reporter that should not be allowed to go unanswered. He said: "Why, sir, to show how the south feels today, Mr. Stanley had to cancel his engagements in Texas, because he was threatened with kukluxing, because it is claimed that he took French leave of the confederate service during the war. I had engagements in Texas, and have canceled them, because I knew I could not satisfy a Texas audience so long as southern hands insisted on throttling free speech and had them on negro throats."

This is a whopper! But Parson Cook never allows the facts of the case to hamper him when he has a point to make. In this instance he calmly frames a false indictment against Texas and the entire south in order to link his name with Stanley's, and draw large and sympathetic audiences in the north. The trick is worthy of a mountebank.

Now, let us get at the real truth of the matter. Major Pond wrote from Los Angeles, Cal., that he had canceled Stanley's dates in Texas, because he thought the late floods would cause delays on the Southern Pacific railroad. There is a plain, satisfactory, business-like reason, and it will be accepted by fair-minded and intelligent people.

All this, however, is wasted on the cranky parson. He sees kuklux in every southern bush, and it is no use to talk to him about floods and railway washouts. If he should hear of an earthquake in Texas he would attribute it to kuklux dynamite.

In the expressive slang of the day, the Rev. Joseph Cook makes us tired.

The Chilian War.

From the first the insurgents seem to have had the advantage of the Chilian government. Having possession of the Chilian fleet, with several strong ironclads, they have made great demonstrations on the coast, while their land forces marched on the capital.

Months have passed by, and the expected collapse of the government has not come. On the contrary, it seems to grow stronger. Santiago is still strong, and Valparaiso is fortified with defenses constructed on the most approved plan of the modern science of war. A German ship has succeeded in landing 7,000 rifles under fire from the fleet, and other large shipments of arms and munitions of war have been received by the government. The few ironclads have not been able to blockade an extended coast line and it is not probable that they will hold even their present advantage. The live powerful cruisers ordered by the Chilian government some time ago are complete and ready for service. They have the high speed of twenty-one knots an hour, and are armed and equipped in the most approved style. Two large cruisers have recently been bought and will join the others. When this powerful armament arrives in Chilian waters, it will probably be too much for the old ironclads, which have a speed of only ten knots, with an armament inferior to that of the new cruisers. Time is evidently making for the government. Revolutionists should strike quick or not at all. They are giving the government opportunity to strengthen itself against them.

We have had such meager and unsatisfactory accounts of the trouble between President Balmaceda and the insurgents that it is impossible to tell what are the real merits of the controversy. If, as we have supposed, he is a despot, and the people, after long suffering, are in arms against him, they will finally prevail.

IT WAS a St. Louis judge who once charged a jury that a mob was sometimes hurried on to deeds of violence by some mysterious and almost electric frenzy which absolves them from all guilt. Great judge, great head!

A NUMBER of story writers have given their opinion of the novel of the future. Only one man struck it. He said it would be a novel that would sell.

AFRICA HAS Stanley Pool, but American has Stanley Pond.

WHEN IT is not drip and grip these days it is nip and rip.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

OLIVER DEACON is very much wanted, just at present, near Huntington, W. Va. It seems that Mr. Deacon engaged himself to eighteen girls, and in every case fixed the 20th of April as the wedding day. He has skipped to Kentucky and his sweethearts are mourning his departure. The trouble is that he has seriously compromised the character of the entire eighteen. Never was there such a wholesale Don Juan.

A PRETTY ENGLISHWOMAN has been arrested in Paris for marrying forty-three gentlemen and invariably skipping on the wedding night with all the presents. Her companion, a Mrs. Caba, believed to hail from New Orleans, attended to the selection of the victims. She made her escape, leaving her principal to suffer the penalty of the law.

EARTHQUAKES ARE more frequent at the periods of new and full moon, and also when the moon is nearest the earth. Several French scientists assert that earthquakes are caused by the moon.

FOSTER, THE weather expert, predicts heavy rains in the south during the first week in April. Just what everybody expected.

BENJAMIN RUSH DAVENPORT has just published in his book, "For Busy People," a compendium of the best literature of all ages. This volume is intended for men who have not ten or fifteen years for general reading. Such books recall Charles Dudley Warner's declaration that a fellow will soon be able to drop a nickel in the slot and pull out a liberal education.

ATLANTA LIKES an honest dollar, but whether she will like "The Honest Dollar," a semi-monthly shortly to be published here, is doubtful. The new periodical will oppose the free coinage of good, large, round, honest silver dollars.

SAM JONES'S lecture is advertised for next month in Tennessee under the title of "Get There." The omission of the customary "Eli" is explained by the evangelist, who says that he left it off because he is opposed to slang. This remarkable change in Mr. Jones will cause his friends to fear that he is sick.

POINTS FROM THE PRESS.

Editor T. V. Fagan, of The Fort Valley Leader, and Mr. S. T. O'Neill, of Fort Valley, are in the city on business. The Leader will soon be enlarged and published by a stock company. Arrangements for such a change are being perfected now.

The Irwin County News, published at Sycamore, comes to hand in an enlarged and improved form. Messrs. Mathews and Kelly are the publishers, and Phillip T. Kelly, an experienced newspaper man, is editor. The paper is well gotten up, and has many interesting features.

The Georgia editors are determined to be in time with their business announcements. Here is a sample:

Our Easter issue was sublime
And quite fulfilled its mission;
Now get your copy in on time
For our Christmas trade edition.

THE ATHENS BANNER, of Sunday, was an Easter edition of sixteen pages, ninety-six columns—the largest paper ever issued in Athens. It simply bubbed over with good things, and showed great enterprise on the part of the management and the citizens of Athens. The Banner is better today than it was yesterday—and so it goes. A new steam press has been ordered and still greater improvements will be made in the future.

A CORRECT DIAGNOSIS.
This wave of la grippe
Is caused by la drippe.

All the Georgia editors who had free passes are enjoying themselves at the Georgia Chautauqua. The walking brigade has not reached Albany yet.

The editor of The Billville Banner will enter suit against The Montezuma Record for damages. He is not running an "Arizona Kicker" column, and does not desire such a reputation. The suit has been filed and papers will be served at an early date. The Banner is copyrighted, but only asks credit for its own articles.

The following dispatch from General Gordon was received last evening.

REYNOLDS, Ga., March 30.—Editor Constitution: Do me the justice and favor to announce that I did not receive any notice of the Friday services in honor of General Johnston until the occasion was over, and oblige, J. B. GORDON.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

A Reply to R. A. F.

EDITOR CONSTITUTION: "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise."

Or "A person convinced against their will, remains of the same opinion still."

From the sarcastic manner that "R. A. F." in your daily issue of December 31, 1890, started out with, one would have been led to believe that she held a heavy battery of truth with which to demolish her opponent, instead of a partial reiteration of perverted or misstated facts. Like all others of that caliber, her plea for continued robbery is far-fetched and not real. From the slurring remark which she made as to my manners and the school in which I was trained, I have this to say: That if she, and probably her liege lord, had drank deeper at the same fount, commenced more with the forefathers, instead of these modern shylocks, it would have been much better for our well-nigh enslaved country.

She appears to be entirely ignorant of the fact that the very currency, corporate state currency, which she is advocating and contending for its restitution, the coin part of gold and silver hid out, as it always does in every hour of trial of the nation, and was the last to reappear on the field of traffic when the trouble was over; and then denounces the very currency that came to the rescue of the government, and sustained amid trial and disaster until the very last moment, when it went down, worn down by the attrition policy, overcame by overwhelming numbers, and became an extinct nationality.

What of her paper currency? Not a dollar of it was redeemed or was of any benefit to the country. Through the same paper currency, we are reliably informed from commercial history and statistics, in 1838 in the state of New York alone thirty-four banks out of forty failed, robbing the people of at least $800,000 besides the loss of depositors, which does not appear. The absurd and hard-up idea of comparing the American lands of today with good and righteous titles, to the confiscated lands upon which the French assignats were issued, is preposterous in the extreme. Who wants to or will buy stolen property? In regard to continental money, I say again that it was the specie resumption basis upon which it was issued that, like the exception close upon the greenback, was concocted by a set of bank conspirators at Washington, and was a partial repudiation of their own paper, and what will do it again—produced the depreciation. No nation has a right to issue or base a currency alone upon the inherent value of one or two commodities—but its insignia must carry with it the resources of the nation. Again the Argentine republic is not a fair and just comparison—the "cedulas" were mortgages given by individuals and interest guaranteed by government, and they sold to the highest bidder, for the purpose of internal improvement at governmental expense, for a class of nobility—which Patrick Henry said would wrest from every republic, if carried out, the last vestige of liberty which they possessed. Now to the culminating nightmare—the subtreasury, the plank upon which so many "governmental pap suckers," their affiliators, sympathizers have stranded themselves, by attempting to down it by ridiculing their scurrilous ridicule at it. We are told that in 1848, its exact copy saved the French republic from inevitable financial failure, and society from disintegration, when gambling Shylock had laid his plan, drove down his stakes for the overthrow of the republic, and all such prophetesses as "R. A. F." and their associate conspirators were made to eat and take back their own predictions. God grant that history in this instance may repeat itself. "All hail to the subtreasury!"

Will "R. A. F." plead antiquity upon us for a continuance of those old barbaric customs in regard to the material of money, and arrest any farther progress and development, ignoring economy and reason? What we want and need to perpetuate our liberties is a currency distinctively and thoroughly American, one that will represent our peculiar American ideas and traits of character, one that will carry with it independence of thought, coupled with that advanced and enlarged conception of social and business life now constituting the one great feature of Americanism. We do not want our money made of so valuable a material as to be sought for abroad. We want it kept in use at home, so that we may enjoy the benefits and reap the rewards of its influence on the great business interests of our people. We want much less talk about that impossible thing, "the money of the world," and much more action in regard to what shall be the money of America.

In reply to the basis of the currency upon which the sub-treasury is proposed to be enacted, what better collateral could you desire or demand when we are confronted with the fact that over $1,600,000,000 of the prime or absolute necessities of life—food and clothing—have to change hands annually in consumption, and there is not $1 of currency in circulation to represent it with which to effect the exchange. The logic of her goldbug act is to create one unit of value for the rich, and a depreciated one for the poor. She says "she has no patience with extortion," but still she would hedge us with such "financial conspiracies" as to render them possible and place a premium upon them. The reason why General Washington had to send to Holland, was that he was then having to wiggle to extricate himself and nation from the mistake which he and other federalists had made in the past, and which "R. A. F." and her conspirators are trying hard to perpetuate and saddle upon America, namely, specie redemption. Better would it have been for him and the nation both if they had have adopted, in the beginning of the revolution, the money upon a right basis. History says that France was able to pay her heavy German indemnity and prospered and grew opulent, recovered from the ravages of war, by refusing to adopt monometallism, and supplying herself with a good and flexible paper currency, while Germany, the recipient of it, grew poorer. And then astounding wonder! She, by this continued policy, was able to come to England's last threatened panic. Why? Because she had eliminated the "R. A. F." would-be metal craze. Oh! what ingenious sophistry, to establish that which is not real in her effort to drag into this debate—the notorious Scotch adventurer, John Law, who had drifted into France, then the most unstable and corrupt government on the continent of Europe. Being bankrupt, and willing to engage in any scheme that would fill her depleted treasury, she adopted the plan of John Law, which was to sell shares in an unknown and undeveloped region 5,000 miles away.

If "R. A. F.," in her attempted portrayal of inflation, had have reversed the picture and have applied it to "contraction," it would have been the crowning excellence of all the truths which she has ever uttered. A glimpse at that, then I am done, as I love to quote from my teachers, and thereby gratify their curiosity and wonder as to the school in which I was educated. Henry Clay, in 1837, tells us that the great revulsion from contraction produced a far greater havoc than ever before experienced; that ruin came quick and fearful; that it was hard to get money to pay taxes; that in Ohio, with all her abundance, the sheriff sold at auction a four-horse wagon for $5.50, ten hogs for 6¼ cents each, two horses worth $75 each at $2 each, two cows at $1 each, a barrel of sugar for $1.50 and a store of goods at the same rate. In Missouri three horses sold at $1.50 each, one large ox at 12½ cents; five cows, two steers and one calf, the lot for $5.25; twenty sheep at 13½ cents each, twenty-four hogs at 25 cents for the lot; one eight-day clock at $2.50; lot of tobacco, seven or eight hogsheads, at $5; three stacks of hay at 25 cents each."

Now, an object lesson: "The metallic money of the Roman empire during the Christian era at one time amounted to $1,800,000,000. By the end of the fifteenth century it had shrunk to less than $200,000,000. During this period a most extraordinary and baleful change took place in the condition of the world. Population dwindled, and commerce, arts, wealth and freedom all disappeared. The people were reduced by poverty and misery to the most degraded conditions of serfdom and slavery. The disintegration of society was almost complete. The conditions of life were so hard that individual selfishness was the only thing consistent with the instinct of self-preservation. All public spirit, all generous emotions, all the noble aspirations of man shriveled and disappeared, as the volume of money shrunk and prices fell. History records no such disastrous transition as that from the Roman empire to the dark ages. Money is the great instrument of association, the very fiber of social organism, the vitalizing force of industry, the protoplasm of civilization, and as essential to its existence as oxygen is to animal life. Without money civilization could not have had a beginning; with a diminishing supply it must languish, and, unless relieved, finally perish."

TWO MYSTERIOUS WOMEN

Whose Actions Have Aroused Feeling in Girard.

COLUMBUS Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The authorities of Girard, across the river, are considerably stirred up over two mysterious white women who, it is believed, were seen on the banks of the river near the lower part of the town, about sun-up on Friday morning, with a bundle, which one of them threw into the river. The party who saw them was too far away to overtake them, but subsequent investigations led to the belief that the bundle contained a baby. Today, by order of the mayor of Girard, the river was dragged, but with no result. Officers are now on the trail of the women, and every effort will be made to apprehend them. Very little was known about the matter until Sunday, when two men, who heard that the women were seen at the river at such an early hour with a bundle, reported that they had encountered two white women about 4 o'clock in the morning, crossing the bridge to Girard, and that one of them had a baby in her arms. The description given of the dress of the women tallies with that of the parties seen at the river, and Girard is terribly wrought up over the sensation.

THE STATE FAIR.

It is Likely to be Held in Augusta this Year.

MACON, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—There is a movement on foot to remove the state fair from Macon to Augusta, or at least to have the exhibition held in the Canal City next October, instead of in the Central City. The readers of THE CONSTITUTION have been made acquainted with the communication of the state fair committee of the Georgia Agricultural Society which was presented to the city council a short while ago, in reference to the state fair. The council has not yet acted on the communication, but may do so at its regular meeting tomorrow night.

Today Secretary R. W. Jemison, of the Georgia Agricultural Society, received a letter from President J. O. Waddell, informing him that Augusta had made a very fine offer to the society to have the fair held there next October.

President Waddell asked Secretary Jemison, as a member of the state fair committee, to vote on the question of the removal of the fair from Macon to Augusta. Secretary Jemison is not disposed to vote on the matter unless the city council acts unfavorably on the communication from the state fair committee.

The removal will be decided by the vote of the state fair committee, which is composed of the following seven members; President, J. O. Waddell, of Atlanta; treasurer, R. J. Powell, of Barnesville; secretary, R. W. Jemison, of Macon; George H. Jones, of Norcross; Pierce Horne, of Dalton; Samuel Hape, of Hapeville; R. E. Park, of Macon.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Deputy Grand Chief of the Order of Railway Telegraphers.

MACON, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—Mr. N. H. Kirch, of Vinton, Ia., deputy grand chief of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, was in the city last night to attend a meeting and election of officers of the Macon division of the order. Deputy Grand Chief Kirch is a very intelligent and affable gentleman, and an indefatigable worker. He is also district organizer for Colorado, Missouri, Louisiana, Arkansas, Nebraska, Indian Territory, Mississippi, Georgia, Kansas, Texas, Alabama and Florida.

The Macon division elected the following officers:

Chief telegrapher, J. D. Rooney, of Hawkinsville; assistant chief telegrapher, James Phillips, of Macon; senior telegrapher, D. W. Hooten, Forsyth; junior telegrapher, A. P. Thomas, Midville; inside sentinel, J. H. Duggan, of Harrison; outside sentinel, S. J. Heath, of Byron; past chief telegrapher, D. R. Dozier, of Macon; delegates to the convention at St. Louis, J. D. Rooney, of Hawkinsville, and D. R. Dozier, of Macon. Four new members were initiated last night.

BURNED THE GUARDHOUSE.

A Prisoner in Whigham Who May Suffer.

MACON, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The town of Whigham, in the extreme southwest corner of the state, came near being destroyed by fire last night.

Simon James, who had stolen a pair of shoes Saturday, had been put in the town calaboose in the early evening. At midnight the town people were awakened by screams, and found that the calaboose was aflame, and had already communicated to other houses. The door was broken open so as to save the prisoner's life, and he escaped subsequently while the people were saving the other houses.

Simon was rearrested late this afternoon. He acknowledged firing the building, and says he burned the Camilla guardhouse last year.

It would not require much to organize a lynching bee tonight.

HE HAILS FROM ATLANTA

And Has Made a Bad and Unenviable Record in Turin.

NEWNAN, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—One Hawkins, a plasterer and brickmason by trade, has swindled the Turin people out of about $75. He left his board bill unpaid, the amount being due a poor widow lady of the community, and it transpires that he is also indebted to other parties. He hails from Atlanta, and it is supposed that he will work his way back to that town.

The Junior Class Speakers.

ATHENS, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The following are the junior class speakers appointed for the coming commencement of the university: J. C. Blasingame, of Zebulon, for declamation; A. A. Bogga, of Athens, for scholarship; E. Denmark, of Quitman, for composition and scholarship; L. L. Brown, of Fort Valley, for scholarship; W. T. Kelly, of Monticello, for scholarship; Julian Lane, of Macon, for scholarship; J. F. Lewis, of Atlanta, for declamation and scholarship; Walter Park, of LaGrange, for declamation; S. H. Sibley, of Union Point, for composition and scholarship; J. E. Wheichel, of Gainesville, for declamation.

Fire in Thomasville.

THE ALLIANCE CANDIDACY.

Mr. Martin V. Calvin, of Augusta, Has a Word to Say About It.

Hon. M. V. Calvin, of Augusta, was in Atlanta yesterday.

Is there anything in the talk, "he was asked, "about you being possibly the next president of the alliance?"

"No," he laughed, "and in fact I hadn't heard anything about it. But if there is any such talk there is certainly nothing in it. No, so far as I am concerned, I am for Colonel Livingston. He is my choice, and he will certainly be the next president."

"No doubt about it?"

"Not a bit."

PEOPLE HERE AND THERE.

DUNHAM.—Mr. O. M. Dunham, the head of the Cassell Publishing Company, in New York, took a look at Atlanta yesterday, piloted by Mr. D. E. Luther, his southern manager of agencies. Mr. Dunam's fine literary judgment and business talent have made him a power in the publishing world. He is a handsome, brainy, magnetic man, apparently on the sunny side of forty.

ROBINSON.—James Robinson, of Phœnix, Ariz., attends school, and is a model pupil, unless the teacher begins to imagine that he knows more than James does. When this happens there is trouble, and the teacher has to sing small, for James is no chicken. He is an elderly man and a strong one, and not only owns the school and all its surroundings, but has $1,000,000 salted down against the coming time when education will have made him into a gentleman and a scholar.

DOUGHERTY.—William Dougherty, a brother of the famous Philadelphia lawyer and orator, Dan Dougherty, now of New York, was found dead in a cellar of a Philadelphia residence a few days since, where he had gone to repair the heaters. The dead man was a few years younger than his famous brother, and had for the greater part of his life been of very dissipated habits. Time and again Daniel Dougherty had placed him in hospitals and homes, but in these he refused to stay, and preferred a roving existence. His brother attended to all the details of the burial directly on hearing of the casualty.

COLQUITT.—Mrs. Mel R. Colquitt, herself a charming poet and prose writer, will contribute to the April number of The Magazine of Poetry a biographical and critical sketch of Orelia Key Bell, the young Georgia poet, whose fine lyrical talent has won such speedy recognition both at home and in the north.

NO CHIEF YET.

THE ELECTION WILL TAKE PLACE TODAY.

Mr. Laird Prevented from Attending on Account of the Critical Illness of His Wife—How It Would Have Stood.

Captain A. B. Connolly is still chief of police.

The election did not take place last night,

But was postponed until this afternoon.

And the postponement was caused by the critical illness of the wife of Commissioner Laird.

By 8 o'clock, the hour designated for the meeting of the police board, the hallways on both floors of police headquarters were thronged. In the crowd were members of the general council, officers of the police department, patrolmen, applicants for positions on the force and citizens.

Of the board Captain J. W. English, chairman, was the first to reach the chamber. He took his seat at the end of the table and began opening a bundle of letters, every one being applications for an appointment or an endorsement of some applicant.

Mr. Gramling came next.

Then Mr. Lester, and a second later Mayor Hemphill.

Mr. Brotherton was the next arrival, and close behind him came a crowd of uniformed men, who were anxious to know all that would take place.

The commissioners greeted each other pleasantly as they came together, and dropped into their chairs.

Then the deep interest apparent in the faces of all present became more intense.

"Mr. Laird is not here yet?" remarked Mr. Lester, interrogatively.

"No. How is Mrs. Laird?" asked Mayor Hemphill.

"Very ill," said Mr. Brotherton. "He will not be here."

"How's that?" asked Mr. Gramling.

The interest deepened perceptibly.

"I'll wait till the chairman calls us to order," said Mr. Brotherton, "and then I'll make a statement."

Chairman English put a stop to the informal talk by calling the board to order, and, as the sound of his gavel died away, Mr. Brotherton arose, saying:

"I've just come from Mr. Laird's home, and he will not be here tonight. Mrs. Laird is very ill, and the doctor does not think it advisable for him to leave her. At night she is troubled with a cough, which she escapes in the daytime. He thinks if the election is put off until tomorrow afternoon, say 3 o'clock, he will be able to be here. I would therefore move to postpone the election to that time."

"I would have made that motion," said Mr. Lester, "and now that Mr. Brotherton has saved me the trouble I'll second it."

The motion was adopted unanimously and the board adjourned.

The change in the programme caused quite a flutter among the members of the force.

They are all very uneasy and every one is anxious to know the result.

Throughout the day yesterday the election was the absorbing theme. Everybody was on the go, either asking for predictions or making them. Nothing else was thought of, especially by those who want to wear a policeman's uniform. The members of the board were besieged constantly by applicants or applicants' friends, and no one will be happier than the commissioners when the election is over.

To predict the result is now utterly impossible.

Before 3 o'clock this afternoon many changes may be made.

Then, too, the result, had the election taken place last night, cannot be given.

But the first six ballots can be easily exposed—if it had taken that many to conclude the work.

On the first it would have been:

For A. B. Connolly for chief—Captain English.

For Colonel Thomas for chief—Mayor Hemphill and Mr. Laird.

For J. M. Wright for chief—Mr. Lester.

For Captain Manley for chief—Mr. Gramling.

Mr. Brotherton's vote is an unknown quantity.

On the second the vote would have been the same.

On the third, Mr. Brotherton would not have changed from that "unknown."

Mr. Laird and Mr. Gramling would not have changed.

But Mayor Hemphill would have changed.

He would have gone to Captain Manley.

So would Mr. Lester—to Chief Connolly, and the result would have been:

Manley, 2—Hemphill, Gramling.

Connolly, 2—English and Lester.

Thomas, 1—Laird.

The fourth ballot would have been the same.

On the fifth Mayor Hemphill would have made another change, and so would Mr. Lester.

Then the result would have been:

Manley, 1—Gramling.

Connolly, 1—English.

Thomas, 3—Laird, Hemphill, Lester.

Mr. Brotherton here would have yet been riding that same dark horse.

The sixth would have been the same.

Then after that no one knows what the great break-up might have been.

Today's respite may change it all.

The combination on the three captaincies is pretty well settled, and it is safe to say that when the force is sworn in this evening one of the captain's will appear in a private's uniform—unless he can borrow a captain's cast off.

HE GOES SCOT FREE.

Jim Ashe Acquitted of Obstructing United States Officers.

James M. Ashe, of Lumpkin county, was yesterday acquitted in the circuit court of the charge of obstructing United States officers.

The case was an interesting one.

On August 7th Deputy Marshal Grizzle, accompanied by Deputy Collectors Hetherington and Ware, started out in search of one Ben Swain, against whom he had a warrant for illicit distilling.

Ashe, who was thoroughly posted on the intricacies of the mountainous highways and byways, ran ahead of the officers and warned Swain out of the way.

The officers in consequence had lots of trouble in locating Swain.

On August 9th the same officers made after F. Seabolt, charged with receiving and concealing moonshine whisky.

Again the wily Ashe ran ahead and moved the victim out of harm's way.

Then the minions of the law turned their attention to Mr. Ashe, and he was indicted for "knowingly, unlawfully and by force of arms" obstructing the officers of the United States in the discharge of their duty.

In the trial yesterday, Judge Newman held there was no "obstruction," and, in accordance with his instructions, the jury acquitted the accused.

EASTER ELECTIONS.

OFFICERS CHOSEN FOR EPISCOPAL CHURCHES FOR 1891.

Delegates are Also Elected to the Diocesan Convention which Meets in May to Elect Bishop Beckwith's Successor.

Yesterday was an important one in Episcopal circles throughout Georgia, it being the day of elections for the parish officers and for delegates to the diocesan convention to be held May 16th at Christ church in Savannah for the purpose of electing a bishop.

In Atlanta the elections—at St. Luke's and St. Philip's churches—were both very successful.

At the cathedral, St. Luke's, the following delegates were elected: Z. D. Harrison, A. H. Locke, C. W. Seidell; alternates, F. M. Scott, Burton Smith, R. C. DeSaussure.

This being the bishop's church its administrative affairs are conducted by a board of curators, appointed by the bishop, and who hold their offices during good behavior.

At St. Philip's church the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Senior warden, Thomas E. Walker; junior warden, M. T. Walker; secretary, H. J. Fears; vestrymen, E. Parsons, T. E. Screven, T. T. Dickson, J. W. Russey, T. H. Austin, Dr. Noble, Dr. Hardon.

The delegates elected were: Paul Romare Dr. J. C. Olmstead, T. E. Walker; alternates, J. H. Austin, H. T. Fear, Edward King.

THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Other elections were as follows:

DARIEN, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The delegates from the Darien Episcopal church, elected today, are Dr. Spalding Kenan, H. S. Ravenel and W. D. Barclay. As nearly as can be ascertained their preference is for Rev. Dr. Gaylor, vice chancellor of the University of the South.

DALTON, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—At a meeting of the members of St. Mark's parish, the following delegates were elected: Colonel Ben E. Green, Hon. John Black and Captain Pierce Horne. The choice of these gentlemen seems to be for Rev. J. S. Shipman, rector of Grace church, New York city; Rev. J. M. Stanley, Terre Haute, Ind.; Rev. W. L. Gathens, San Francisco, Cal., and Rev. Ellison Capers, Greenville, S. C., any of which would give satisfaction.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., March 30.—[Special.] The meeting of the vestry of Stephen's church, to elect delegates to the May convention, was postponed until next week, without a meeting today.

HAWKINSVLLE, Ga., March 30.—[Special.] Messrs. E. J. Henry, P. J. Boseman and W. W. Leman, Jr., are the delegates from this city, who will attend the convention in Savannah. It is believed that these gentlemen will all favor the election of Dr. Gaylor, of Sewanee, Tenn.

GRIFFIN, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The vestry of St. George's Episcopal church at this place failed to elect delegates to the diocesan convention because a quorum was not present. The meeting was postponed until Thursday next. Among the laymen and some of the vestrymen Chancellor Gaylor of the University of the south, is the acknowledged preference for the bishopric of Georgia.

AMERICUS, Ga., March 30,—[Special.]—Calvary Episcopal church elected Messrs. U. B. Harrold, S. P. Boone and O. P. Coleman as delegates to the diocesan convention. The delegates decline to express for publication any preference as to the bishsp, desiring to go to the convention entirely untrammeled.

ROME, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The lay delegates elected by the Episcopalians at this parish are General Alfred Cummings, Colonel A. W Walton and J. Sam Veal. Mr. Hudgins, the rector of St. Peter's church, favors Bishop Wingfield, of California. Bishop Wingfield was formerly a Georgian.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—At Trinity church the following named were elected vestrymen: J. Rhodes Browne, W. C. Coart, N. N. Curtis, G. W. Dillingham, J. S. Garrett, E. L. Wells, Charles Wise, Jesse Snider. They will meet on Monday next and elect two delegates to the convention, to be held in May, to elect a bishop.

ATHENS, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The Episcopal church of this city appointed its delegates to the convention in Savannah in May, at which time Bishop Beckwith's successor will be elected. The delegates are: Professor C. P. Willcox, Professor H. C. White and Hon. Pope Barrow. The alternates are: Messrs. W. D. Griffith, Wyatt Owens and B. H. Noble.

The delegates and alternates have not considered the question of who ought to be the next bishop. They express no preference, but will wait until the convention meets before they come to any conclusion in the matter.

MACON, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—Christ church vestry election was held at the chapel at 6 o'clock this evening, with the following result: Senior warden, John G. Dietz; junior warden, George R. Barker; vestrymen, Luther M. Williams, John M. Walker, T. O. Chestney, Mallory H. Taylor, H. G. Cutter, Robert Munford, Dr. W. R. Winchester. No delegates were elected. Many gentlemen are mentioned.

The Episcopalians at Rome have written to a prominent member of the church here, asking his influence in behalf of a prominent divine now in the lower part of California, and a probable candidate for bishop. A very active member of Christ church today said that he intended placing the name of Rev. W. R. Winchester, now of Nashville, Tenn., in nomination in the convention, and had no doubt he would be well supported.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 30.—[Special.]—The annual election of officers of the Episcopal churches was held here today. All the old vestrymen of each of the churches were re-elected. Here are the delegates to the diocesan convention to be held in Savannah in May, at which the late Bishop Beckwith's successor will be elected: St. Paul's church—John S. Davidson, W. K. Mills and B. H. Smith, Jr.; alternates, W. H. Crane, Dr. Desford and John W. Clark. Church of the Atonement—Peter G. Barum, J. C. Bligh and John Neely; alternates, Albert Davidson, R. W. Hunt and George P. Hill. Church of the Good Shepherd—Charles Edgeworth Jones, Frank H. Miller and W. W. Montgomery. The delegates go uninstructed, and it is not known as to whom they will support for bishop.

HOW THEY CHOOSE A BISHOP.

Bishop Thompson, of Mississippi, has been asked to preside at the Savannah convention, and will accept.

The method of electing a bishop is familiar, of course, to Episcopalians, but is not known to the world at large. It is an interesting one.

Each parish sends three lay delegates and its rector. The nominations in the convention are made in the usual order followed in political conventions. When they are completed, the names are balloted upon by the clergy. A bare majority constitutes a choice. When the choice is made his name is sent to the delegates, who ballot by themselves. In their case, also, a bare majority constitutes a ratification. If they reject the name, the clergy take up another nominee.

When, however, both sides agree upon a choice he is declared elected. Then his name is sent to the standing committees of all the dioceses in the country for approval. Each of these committees is composed of three clergymen and three laymen, who constitute the cabinet of the bishop of the state. They vote as a unit, and the opposing vote of one committee destroys the chances of the chosen one, and another election is called.

SOME OF THE LIKELY ONES.

A number of names have been suggested for the honored position. Among them are Rev. Chauncey Williams, of Augusta, Ga.; Rev. Dr. Lindsey, of Trinity church, Boston; Rev. Dr. Ralnsford, of New York; Rev. Dr. Gaylor, of Sewanee university; Rev. Robert S. Barrett, pastor of St. Luke's church, in this city, Rev. Dr. Robert Gibson, of Richmond Va.; Bishop Wingfield, of California, and others.

All of these gentlemen are highly endorsed for the place.

Dr. Williams is an eloquent pulpit orator and a cultured gentleman. He has many adherents, and is said to be a man of charming personality. He has opponents, however, who argue that the bishop of this state must be an evangelical worker, which Dr. Williams is not.

Dr. Lindsay is a Virginian by birth, and is said to be a power in the pulpit. He was elected assistant bishop of Alabama last summer, but having a short time before accepted a call to Trinity church, Boston, he thought he could not consistently accept the former. He has a strong following.

A circular letter was recently received by a prominent Episcopalian in this city from a gentleman high in Episcopal circles in California, urging the election of Bishop Wingfield of that state as a successor to Bishop Beckwith. He was fifty-five years old, the writer stated, but what the church lost in age was amply compensated by his great experience.

Rev. Dr. Strong, of Christ church, Savannah, has also been suggested. He received his education abroad, and is a man of deep learning. His delicate health, it is thought, will interfere somewhat with his chances of election, many church people holding that only a person of robust physique can successfully perform the arduous duties of the place.

Rev. R. S. Barrett, of this city, is the choice of a large number of people in this section of the state. He is not only a man of great learning and broad views, acquired by long study and extensive travel, but is extremely popular with his parishioners. He is a tall, powerful, brainy man of engaging manners, and is just the sort of man who could fill the role of bishop to perfection.

It is not generally known in this city that Mr. Barrett was elected assistant bishop of Alabama about two months ago, but such is a fact. On the first ballot he received 18 out of 21 votes cast by the clergy, and was declared elected. They sent his name to the laymen for ratification, and notified the latter they must concur in the choice. The laymen thought they were being dictated to, and arose in their wrath and rejected Mr. Barrett. There was no personal objection to him, but they thought it would establish a dangerous precedent to ratify him. At previous elections for that position it had been customary to send in three names, at least, from which the laymen were allowed to make a choice.

There are others, however, who think a dark horse may yet get the honor—somebody who has never yet been mentioned.

AT REST.

The Peaceful Ending of a Noble and Tranquil Life.

Mrs. Mary A. Harris, the mother of Mr. Joel Chandler Harris, died at the residence of her son, on Gordon street, West End, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Her death was the ending of a peaceful and tranquil life.

Mrs. Harris was in her seventy-sixth year. For a long time her health has been failing. About three weeks ago she was attacked with the grip, and her strength, owing to her age and feebleness, was not sufficient to sustain her under an attack of this disease, which has carried off so many of the best beloved of Atlanta within the last few months.

Mrs. Harris was a pure type of Georgia womanhood. Born in Richmond county, in 1816, she afterwards removed to Eatonton, Putnam county, where she spent many happy years.

True to all those instincts that have ennobled the women of the south, she read everything that was worth reading in the English language, and became one of the best informed women in the country.

To her fine intelligence and generous heart may be attributed those traits of character that have made the name and fame of her son illustrious and undying.

Her inexhaustible fund of general information rendered her one of the finest of conversationalists; she took an active interest in all political questions, especially anything that referred to her native southland.

In 1876 she came to Atlanta to reside with Mr. Joel Chandler Harris, who is her only child; and since that time she has made this her home.

Possessing those rare qualities of mind and heart that render women most lovable, she soon became the center of a circle of devoted friends; and her life has been as placid and tranquil as a sweet summer day during her long residence in this city.

Gentle, charitable, benevolent and tender, she won the love and admiration of all who were thrown in contact with her; and in death as in life she exhibited that beautiful resignation and content that belong alone to the pure in heart.

The funeral services will be conducted by Rev. S. Y. Jameson, at the residence, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, after which the interment will take place at Westview.

The pallbearers selected are: Messrs. A. B. Matthews, Malcolm Johnston, J. D. Frazier, O. B. Culberson, J. C. Daniel, J. B. Richardson, G. J. Dallas and E. P. Howell.

It is an old saying, and as true as it is old.

Yesterday afternoon there was a romantic marriage at the residence of a well-known citizen on Mangum street.

John J. McMannon and Miss Gay Hoffman were the young people who took each other for better or for worse.

Mr. McManmon is shipping clerk at the Southern Agricultural works. Miss Hoffman, up to yesterday evening, was stenographer for Wellhouse & Sons.

The two young people have been very much attached to each other for a good while, but the young lady's parents objected to a marriage.

Yesterday both attended their work as usual until 6 o'clock, when together they went to a friend's residence on Mangum street, where Rev. Mr. Colbert made them man and wife.

Last night a reception was given the bride and groom at the home of the latter's parents, on Hampton street.

TO BUY FOR ATLANTA.

HOW A PURCHASING AGENT WOULD SAVE

Money to the City and Prevent Discrimination—The Tax Committee Meets. In the City Hall.

Does Atlanta need a purchasing agent?

Those most conversant with the situation assert most positively that she does.

And a careful study of the question will satisfy almost any one that a purchasing agent is a necessity.

In four departments only, Atlanta has 164 horses and mules, and the feed bills for these departments, for 1890, are of themselves conclusive argument in favor of a centralization of the buying power.

Ordinarily, centralization is not to be desired.

But glance at this, and see if it is not a good thing for the taxpayer.

The sanitary department had, in 1890, eighty horses and mules—a part of the time eighty-three—and the feed bill for the year amounted to $9,373.42.

In 1890 the police department had twenty horses, and the feed bill was $2,054.98.

The street department works more horses and mules than any other department in the city, except the sanitary, and in 1890 had from thirty-two to thirty-five head of stock. Here the feed bill was $3,452.50.

Two more horses were in the fire department in 1890 than in the police department. The fire department fed its twenty-four horses at a cost of $2,066.21.

The head of each department has purchased the feed for the stock of that department for years.

And the result has been a great discrepancy in the cost per head.

In the sanitary department each head of stock has cost each month $10.01.

In the police department the cost for each horse has been $7.78 a month.

The fire department has paid $7.16 a month for each horse.

The cost for each horse in the street department has been $11.10 a month.

Had the purchasing of the feed stuff been in the hands of one person only the cost of stock feed would have been less.

Then in addition to this the buying is a subject of severe criticism among the grain dealers. Favoritism is openly declared by them. The grain men say that it is impossible to sell to some of the departments as the heads buy from one house only and will not divide their trade.

Others, however, go around generally before buying.

Not long ago, the grain men prepared a petition, which was signed by nearly every merchant in Atlanta, asking that the trade be divided, but nothing more was ever heard of the petition.

Those Streets on the West Side.

The paper withdrawing the proposition to give land in the western part of the city for streets, has been received at the city hall.

A copy of the resolution ordering the work was with it.

That resolution reads:

Resolved, by the mayor and general council, That in consideration of H. T. Inman desiring to improve a large tract of land within a mile of the carshed, in the western part of the city, he proposes to give the city the following streets free of charge, provided the commissioner of public works be directed to work out the following streets: Jones avenue and Bush street, between DeGive alley and Vine street, and Lambert and Walnut street from Simpson to John street, so that the owner will know how to grade this property.

The New Station House.

The special committee on locating and building a new station house will meet tomorrow afternoon.

The committee was to have met this afternoon but a postponement was ordered because Captain English could not be present.

Mr. Woodward, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. McBride, of the public building committee, Mr. Rice, Mr. Hutchison, Mr. Shropshire, Mr. Turner and Mr. Hendrix, of the finance committee, Mr. King, chairman of the police committee, and Captain English, chairman of the board of police commissioners, form the special committee.

Two schemes for a new station house will be presented during the meeting, and the indications are that a definite plan will be adopted.

The Tax Committee.

The tax committee, Mr. Reinhardt chairman, Mr. Rice and Mr. Turner, passed two hours in the assessor's office yesterday.

And it was two hours of hard work.

The committee made a thorough examination of the assessed values given property throughout the city, and at the next meeting of the general council will present a paper paying a high compliment to the board of assessors.

THAT DEAD BABY.

Two Parties Arrested and Released on Bond Yesterday.

Jane White, a negro woman who has been confined in the station house for several days, was released on a bond of $500 yesterday.

She is charged with being mixed up in the death of the infant found with its skull crushed, near the East Tennessee shops, last week.

G. A. Yeaton, a white man who stays at Hayes drug store, is also under bond for being accessory to the crime.

Soon after the babe was found, a negro girl named White, who lives on Gate City street, was put under arrest. She was unable to leave her bed when arrested, and is yet under guard of an officer.

Jane White, the girl's mother, was arrested as an accessory, and subsequently released on bond, as stated.

Later the matter was traced up, and Yeaton was arrested. He was first tried before the recorder for doing business as a physician without license. This charge was dismissed upon his showing that he was simply an employe at Hayes's drug store.

Then a warrant was sworn out before Justice Owens, charging Yeaton with being accessory to the baby's death. Upon this charge he was placed under a $500 bond by Justice Owens.

As will be remembered, the baby was found buried in a basket, with its head crushed.

In the Family Burying Ground.—On Sunday the body of Mr. John S. Pinson was interred in the family burying ground, about ten miles from Rome. Mr. Pinson was well and favorably known in Atlanta, and a year ago married Miss Eva Gillam, one of Atlanta's most popular young ladies. The young widow has the profound sympathy of many friends in her great affliction.

ACQUITTED ON A TECHNICALITY.

Uncle Sam Relaxes His Grip on One of His Former Employes.

John N. Stonecypher has been acquitted in the circuit court of returning false reports to the treasury auditor for the postoffice department.

Stonecypher is the son of P. J. Stonecypher, postmaster at Mills, Whitfield county. In 1887 he was his father's assistant. He was accused of sending false returns to the treasury auditor. The reports dated from October 1, 1887, to December 31, 1887, and from January 1, 1888, to March 31, 1888. They included the sales of postage stamps, stamped envelopes, postal cards, newspaper and periodical stamps. It was alleged against Stonecypher that he doctored these returns, while acting postmaster, so as to increase his compensation, and that the moneys so fraudulently obtained were used to pay debts and purchase merchandise.

The case was hotly contested, Glenn & Maddox appearing for the defense and District Attorney Darnell for the prosecution.

Stonecypher was acquitted on a technicality. According to the indictment he purchased the goods of M. Swartz, of Chattanooga, whereas they were bought of M. Swartz & Co. On this apparently trivial point he was acquitted.

To a disinterested party it looks as though Stonecypher was not guilty of any intentional offense. The only thing proven against him was the purchase of a pair of shoes of Swartz & Co., for which he paid $1.50 in postage stamps.

A letter was produced in court from Stonecypher to Swartz & Co., in which the writer said he sent the stamps, because he could not get a bill, from which it was inferred that he returned the cash value of the stamps to the money drawer.

It is against the statutes for employes of the government to use stamps for any such purpose.

THE SPRING OF ETERNAL YOUTH.

It was Goethe, the great poet, who called Carlsbad the spring of eternal youth, and Carlsbad truly deserves that name. For centuries this spring has given forth the waters which are drunk by the hundreds of thousands that flock there from all parts of the globe in search of health. If it is inconvenient for you to go to the springs, make them come to you. In other words, you can carry the famous Sprudel Spring around with you. Buy the imported Carlsbad Sprudel Salt, which is obtained from the Sprudel Spring by evaporation. It is the best natural remedy for constipation, catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia, and liver and kidney complaints, should specially be used during the spring and summer months, when sufficient out-door exercise can be taken. Be sure to buy the genuine imported article only, which must have the signature of "Eisner & Meudelson Co., sole agents, New York," on every package. top col nrm

How to Buy Groceries.

A question of interest to everybody.

A little reflection is all that is needed to convince anyone that the question of "How to Buy Groceries?" is one of importance to everyone; for eating is one of the necessities of life, and a good, well-filled table its greatest luxury. Now in answering this question, the first requisite should be pure, fresh goods. Go to some store where everything is kept clean and neat, and where you are sure of getting fresh gsods of the very best quality.

Surely if there is anything that we should be careful about, it is that everything that we eat should be of the best quality and absolutely pure and fresh.

Now we claim to handle only the very best quality of everything, and our large trade, which is constantly on the increase, insures freshness.

Besides, our store and our goods are kept scrupulously clean. Everything that dust can injure is kept under glass, and we invite all to come and inspect our stock of pure, fresh, clean and first-class groceries.

The next requisite in buying groceries is price. Today a lady, while buying a bill, remarked: "Why Mr. Hoyt, I just paid 20 cents for Windham corn and you only charge me 15 cents." On being priced Rijamo coffee, she said that she had always paid 40 cents for coffee until she bought ours and that ours was better. Another lady bought just then some of our fine Jersey butter at 35 cents, remarking that it was the best she could find and 5 cents per pound cheaper than any other. And we could go on through our stock convincing you both of the quality and cheapness of our goods, but the above will suffice.

The next item in buying groceries is variety You want to trade where you can find all you want Now it is conceded by all that we carry the most complete line of everything to eat that can be found anywhere.

No other store carries such a line of evaporated fruits as we do. In canned fruits or canned fish, our stock is complete and varied.

The same is true in all the other lines of eatables.

The application of the above is easy of solution.

Hoyt's store is the place to buy fresh, pure, first-quality and reasonable groceries.

H. C. PENDLETON,

Real Estate. Timber and Mineral Lands a Specialty. 17 Pryor Street, Kimball House. Telephone 149.

Twenty-two years residence in Atlanta has given me an acquaintance with the city and vicinity, of which my clients get the benefit. I have acreage property in all directions, including several tracts now ripe for profitable subdivisions. Vacant lots on nearly every street in the city, and houses of every possible description and location. Business property now offered at prices that 3 years hence will seem ridiculously low, and make you wonder where your wits were. Timber lands, a few pieces left at last year's prices. Mineral lands, all varieties of minerals afforded by the richest and most diversified mineral belt in the United States. If you don't see the wealth at your own doors, outsiders do, and are rapidly absorbing, at merely nominal figures, the same classes of property that in the mining districts of the west command prices ranging from $100,000 to $1,000,000. Now is the time to buy.

Mr. Frank J. Cohen, now with me, will be happy to greet his friends. H. C. PENDLETON.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, March 30.—The stock market opened the new week this morning with considerable more animation than usual of late, although dealers were still restricted to small amounts, and had a professional character. There was, however, more interest in the leading shares, and inactive stocks were not so largely traded in, which is regarded as a good sign. The feeling was undoubtedly bullish, and the aspect of affairs which would have an influence upon speculation, was favorable. There was a notable absence of stocks seeking the market this morning, and this of itself militated against an active market, but the buying was undoubtedly good, and spells of animation to which the market was subjected during the day were invariably accompanied by an upward movement in prices, showing conclusively that the bears had not the courage of their convictions. The Grangers were still the most prominent group of stocks, and notwithstanding a decrease in the gross earnings of Burlington reported, that stock and Rock Island were conspicuously strong, as were also Northern Pacific preferred and leading industrials. There were few movements of importance among specialties, but Manhattan made some wide fluctuations and closed higher. The general list, after a firm opening, was dull, but followed the lead of active shares, and advanced steadily, though slowly, from the opening to the close. The upward movement met with no real set-back throughout the day, and the last prices are generally the highest. Among industrials sugar was most active, and scored a marked advance, but in the general list all important movements were in the leading active stocks. The close was fairly active and strong at the highest prices, or thereabouts. The final changes are all in the upward direction, and Manhattan is up 2½, Burlington 2⅛, Sugar 2, Rock Island 1⅜, Northwestern, Missouri Pacific and Northern Pacific preferred each 1⅜, and Southern Pacific, Lake Shore and Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis each 1 per cent, the rest rising fractional amounts only. Sales of listed 148,000 shares, unlisted 27,000.

Exchange dull and easier at 486½@489; commercial bills 485¼@487¾.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, March 30—[Special.]—While stubbornly resisting the influences which make for lower prices, the market today has shown a disposition to yield, and August again sold at 9c under the pressure of long cotton which was disposed of by tired holders. The market has been purely a local one, the only feature being the sales of the long cotton alluded to, which found buyers among those to whom the price seemed alluring. These latter, however, are not buyers for more than a quick turn, and their purchases seem to be stimulated by the tenacity of those who, believing prices low, are loth to part with their possessions. Without quotations from abroad, owing to the Easter holidays, operators are averse to entering upon new engagements, prefering to observe the effect of the receipts upon the Liverpool market on Wednesday. These receipts are upon a most generuos scale, and seem to fortify the bears in their sanguine view that it would be impossible for prices to hold under the enormous movement. For the day they amount to 15,120 bales—more than double those of last year. The weather is reported as favorable. Southern markets are unchanged in tone and quiet. Telegrams from New Orleans indicate 15,000 bales as the probable receipts for tomorrow with 25,000 at all the ports. The market here closed quiet and fairly sustained, but without life.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, March 30. — Speculative trading was strongly in favor of higher prices, and opened with immediate advances for all the leading commodities. The tone thus early imparted was maintained throughout the session, but considerable advance over the prices paid immediately at the start was afterward dropped, so that the gain in the end did not exceed that secured on the first brush. The opening price for May wheat was $1.04¼, and it advanced to $1.04½, then declined to $1.04, gradually reacted to $1.04⅜ before making its greatest break to $1.03¾. It then advanced to $1.05 in an irregular way and broke to $1.04¼. Free realizing of profits on early purchases was chiefly responsible for the set-back to prices toward the close.

The corn market was strong and nervous. It started at anywhere from 68@68⅜c for May, but weakened and sold off to 67⅜c. There was a very irregular range in subsequent fluctuations, but the feeling of strength developed at the opening was for a greater part of the day fairly maintained. There was a spurt in the latter half of the session which took May up to 69¼c. This was caused by a scarcity of cash offerings, compelling one of the heaviest local users of corn to buy from elevator stocks at 1c over the current price for May delivery. July did not respond to the extreme bulge in May, but it also ruled firm and occasionally strong.

Transactions in oats at the opening prices were very light. The demand was urgent, and there was nothing of consequence for sale, hence an advance of ½@¾c was recorded before trade became general. Values were fully 1c higher early, when there was considerable realizing, which caused a corresponding decline. The anxiety of the shorts to cover turned the tide the other way for a time, but the close was weak with price ⅜@½c higher than on Saturday.

The provision market was excited by the advance in the price of hogs reported from the stock yards. The prices paid were very irregular but higher. Commission houses found it difficult to execute orders satisfactorily under the rapid running up and down of values. May pork opened anywhere from $12.85@13.00. It sold off to $12.77½, again advanced to $13.30 and closed at $12.85.

Lard and ribs were equally irregular and excited, but closed with a greater part of the early bulge lost.

NOTICE.

HAVING RETIRED FROM THE WILSON Coal and Lumber Co., on the 28th of February, 1891, I recommend to my successors the patronage of my friends.

I shall be engaged for the next two months at the office, 24 South Broad street, Atlanta, Ga.

I commenced in the real estate, renting and collection of accounts, in this city, in September, 1865, and continued in it until the fall of 1867, when the Coal Creek coal mines were opened in East Tennessee; then, through the kindness of Major Campbell Wallace, who had the first coal from these mines shipped to me, I soon found that there was more demand for coal than land, in this city, and I commenced in that business.

It is my intention, about the 1st of May, to return to the real estate business again, trusting that my old friends and the citizens of Atlanta will give me a share of their patronage, pledging them that I will use my best endeavors to serve them faithfully. Respectfully,

EDWARD PARSONS.

ABOUT THE CAPITOL.

TOMORROW THE NEW PHYSICIAN OF THE PENITENTIARY TAKES HOLD.

An Order About Widows' Pensions—The Rental of the W. and A. Paid Yesterday. A Bit of Calculation About It.

Tomorrow the change takes place in the department of the principal physician of the penitentiary.

Dr. H. V. M. Miller, who was appointed by Governor Gordon, steps down and out.

Dr. W. O'Daniel, his successor, appointed by Governor Northen, takes charge of the office.

Dr. Miller, it goes without saying, has made a thorough-going and highly efficient officer, and his administration has given complete satisfaction.

Dr. O'Daniel is a prominent alllanceman, a physician of acknowledged position, and will doubtless prove an efficient officer.

This is the last of the statehouse officers affected by the last election.

About Widows' Pensions.

An important order was issued by the governor yesterday, relative to the pensions for confederate widows.

Whereas, The act of the recent general assembly, providing pensions for the widows of confederate soldiers, stipulates that each widow, entitled under its provisions, shall receive $100, and the general appropriation act sets apart $60,000 to cover this expenditure;

And whereas, There is now official information in this department, furnished by the ordinaries of the several counties, making the number of applicants more than 4,000;

And whereas, It will be impossible under the existing circumstances to establish any rules by which the money appropriated may be judiciously and properly distributed until all the applications shall be filed in this office and passed upon under the provisions of the law. It is therefore Ordered, That payments of pensions to the widows of confederate soldiers will not begin until ample time has been given to receive and pass upon all applications. Of this, due notice will be given through the papers and the ordinaries of the several counties. The ordinaries are respectfully instructed to explain the provisions of this order and instruct every applicant to send her proofs to this department and await notice of readiness to begin the payments.

By the governor. W. J. NORTHEN, Governor.
W. H. HARRISON, Secretary Executive Department.

The State Road Rented.

The Western and Atlantic rental for March was paid yesterday.

This is what it amounts to:
$35,001 a month.
$1,150.66 a day.
$47.94 an hour.
Eighty cents a minute—a pretty good income, $420,000 a year.

Going to Albany.

Commissioner Bradwell leaves today to take charge of the "Educational Day" exercises at the Albany Chautauqua.

The governor is to be the central figure at the chautauqua next Friday—"Governor's Day."

On the 10th and 11th Commissioner Bradwell will be in Emanuel county. On the 10th he will deliver an address to the school at Swainsboro; and next day there will be a mass meeting and grand barbecue in Swainsboro, when the commissioner will make another address.

THE EMPRESS ELIZABETH OF AUSTRIA,

several years ago, after a severe spell of sickness, was advised by her house physicians to use Johann Hoff's Malt Extract to rebuild her weakened constitution. It acted so admirably that in appreciation the Emperor Francis Joseph ordered Mr. Johann Hoff to his court, and not only appointed him Purveyor to the Austrian Court, but also decorated him with the Order of the Golden Cross and Crown. This was a distinction not often received by civilians and merchants, and it made him a Knight in Austria. In 1870 he also received the Order of the Crown from Emperor Wilhelm.

Johann Hoff's Extract of Malt has become known all over the world. No less than half a million bottles are imported annually into the United States from Berlin, through the agents here, Messrs. Eisner & Mendelson Company, New York.

There is nothing "just as good" when you can obtain the genuine article, which must have the signature of "Johann Hoff" on the neck of every bottle. Take no imitations.

Good Advice.

The most dangerous practice to which persons, whose sight is failing, are exposed, is that of wearing glasses that happen to be in the house belonging to their mother, or perhaps having been worn by their grandmother or grandfather, wholly unsuited to their conditions, little dreaming how great and irreparable an injury they are doing to their eyes by using unsuitable spectacles.

They would save themselves a lifelong regret if they had their eyes properly fitted with glasses that are known to be good. Hawkes's Crystallized Lenses accurately adjusted to the condition of the eyes, preserve the sight and keep the eyes vigorous even in old age.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

ONCE MORE THE EAST TENNESSEE STRIKE IS OFF.

Other News of General Interest to Railroad Men all Through This Section of the Country.

Trouble on the East Tennessee still continues, and, although the firemen and brakemen are not organized, they are in an unsettled state, and are liable to quit work at any time.

The road was inconvenienced for a short time yesterday morning, but the trouble was soon settled, and no further disturbance has been reported.

"What are the men striking about this time?" was asked of Superintendent Beauprie yesterday.

"It was not a strike," he answered, "the men were moved to quit work through threats and intimidation."

"Who is making the trouble?"

"The same men who tried to get up a strike several days ago. Sunday afternoon I sent for the train hands of the freights about to start out, and had a little talk with them. There were fifty present, and among the number I noticed a white man named Jeffries, who was one of the ringleaders of the last movement, and whom I subsequently discharged. He had no business there, and I told him so, ordering him to leave. He left.

"Nine freight trains had been made up, and were about to pull out, four south and five north, at Sunday midnight, when Blodgett and Jeffries, at the head of about twenty-five men, the majority of whom were negroes, marched up to the trains, and by threatening violence induced the hands to get off the trains. They appealed to me, and I immediately telephoned the police. In a short time they appeared; the disturbers fled and the trains started out. Those bound south were not molested. But the northbound trains were intercepted about two miles out by the same crowd, who had sneaked out through the yards. I was sent for and immediately went for the sheriff. He and myself, together with about ten deputies and railroad men, boarded an engine and steamed out to the scene of the trouble. Again the crowd scattered and again the trains started up. We have had no trouble since."

"But what became of Blodgett and the rest of the crowd?"

"We searched for them, but they had escaped in the darkness and we could not find them."

"Will you make complaint against Blodgett and Jeffries?"

"Yes, they have bothered me enough now. If their actions do not constitute the term, 'inciting to riot,' I don't know what does. One more such action on their part and I shall have them arrested on that ground."

About ten or twelve "dead-heads," or extra hands, quit the road yesterday morning, but all of the regulars are still at work.

That was the situation last night.

The Louisville and Nashville road was yesterday completed to the depot at Big Stone Gap, Va. Consequently there was great rejoicing there. Trains will be put on in a few days, and Louisville will have direct connection with a section of country whose trade has heretofore nearly all gone to Baltimore. The track from Cumberland Gap to Big Stone Gap has been carefully laid with heavy steel, and is said to be first-class in every particular.

There is nothing small about the Northern Pacific railroad. August 11th had been set as the date of the annual meeting of the International Association of Ticket Agents, but the day has been changed to September 7th, and St. Paul the place, owing to the splendid inducements offered by the Northern Pacific. The road will donate $10,000 for the entertainment of the agents, at the conclusion of their business, and, in addition, will give them a trip to Yellowstone National park. It will also pay all their expenses, including hotel bills. The boys look forward to a grand time. About 500 will attend.

It is reported that negotiations are in progress whereby the Brice-Thomas syndicate will gain control of the Cincinnati, Jackson and Mackinaw road, with a view to northern feeders for the Richmond Terminal and Lake Erie and Western systems.

The gross earnings of the Louisville and Nashville road for the third week of March were $351,005, a decrease from the corresponding week of last year of $2,899.

AN ART SALE.

WORKS OF ART AT AUCTION TOMORROW.

Mr. P. Levy, of New York, With a Fine Collection of Paintings—A Few Points About Them.

Some very fine paintings will be sold at auction tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock by P. Levy. The paintings are now on exhibition at 98 South Broad street, in the Rhodes & Haverty building. The collection that Mr. Levy has is a wonderful one.

Some of the finest paintings by the old masters may be seen. He has several pictures that originally cost $5,000 to $10,000.

Among the works now offered for public exhibition are some very rare and valuable paintings by eminent, ancient and modern artists, such as Webster, of London; Nichols, of Philadelphia; Diaz, Charles Daubiny; two beautifully executed marines by Grantville Perkins, of New York; a "Jules Dupre," also a very fine old masterpiece by one of the most celebrated Dutch masters of the fifteenth century, "Lucas Van Leyden," for which $5,000 was paid at the sale of Don Pedro de Bourbon; "The Apostle Paul Healing the Sick Man," a superb painting by David Tennier, Jr.; a masterpiece by De Lena, also an artist of the fifteenth century; "The Handwriting On the Wall," "Fete at the Chateau," by Bordenski, of Vienna, for which he was awarded the gold medal at the Vienna exhibition; "Violets," by Bernard, of Vienna, one of the finest specimens of this great master's work; "The Old Monk," a superb painting by Schleiher, of Munich. In fact, the collection contains so many works that possess real merit, that it is impossible to mention but a few of them in this article, the whole forming a combination of talent rarely offered at auction outside of New York city. This is a rare opportunity which our citizens should not miss. The entire collection is to be disposed of regardless of cost or value by order of Senor Marati, of New Orleans, and other art collectors to whom the works belong.

No house is finished without paintings on the walls. It shows taste and refinement, and if our citizens have a good collection brought to their city, we hope they will show their appreciation by securing some of the gems of the collection.

The sale will commence on Wednesday morning at 10 a. m., and will be conducted by an art auctioneer who will dispose of them without limit or regard to value.

Seats are reserved for ladies with catalogues.

DON'T GIVE UP

The use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. One bottle may not cure "right off" a complaint of years; persist until a cure is effected. As a general rule, improvement follows shortly after beginning the use of this medicine. With many people, the effect is immediately noticeable; but some constitutions are less susceptible to medicinal influences than others, and the curative process may, therefore, in such cases, be less prompt. Perseverance in using this remedy is sure of its reward at last. Sooner or later, the most stubborn blood diseases yield to

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For several years, in the spring months, I used to be troubled with a drowsy, tired feeling, and a dull pain in the small of my back, so bad, at times, as to prevent my being able to walk, the least sudden motion causing me severe distress. Frequently, boils and rashes would break out on various parts of the body. By the advice of friends and my family physician, I began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla and continued it till the poison in my blood was thoroughly eradicated."—L. W. English, Montgomery City, Mo.

"My system was all run down; my skin rough and of yellowish hue. I tried various remedies, and while some of them gave me temporary relief, none of them did any permanent good. At last I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, continuing it exclusively for a considerable time, and am pleased to say that it completely

Cured Me.

I presume my liver was very much out of order, and the blood impure in consequence. I feel that I cannot too highly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla to any one afflicted as I was."—Mrs. N. A. Smith, Glover, Vt.

"For years I suffered from scrofula and blood diseases. The doctors' prescriptions and several so-called blood-purifiers being of no avail, I was at last advised by a friend to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I did so, and now feel like a new man, being fully restored to health."—C. N. Frink, Decorah, Iowa.

WASHEE, WASHEE!

A PECULIAR CASE IN JUSTICE LANDRUM'S COURT YESTERDAY.

Mrs. Leon Gains One Point Against Chan Yee, Whom She Charged with Malicious Mischief and Gambling.

There was a funny case in Justice Landrum's court yesterday.

Mrs. H. Leon, relict of the late high leader of Atlanta celestials, swore out two warrants against Chan Yee, an orange-hued heathen from Cathay.

The first charge was grounded on the fact that she sent sixteen shirts to Chan Yee's establishment, corner of Broad and Marietta streets, and when returned the private mark on each and every one of them had been obliterated with a big smudge of ink.

She set forth that Chan had been trying to injure her business, and had not only damaged the shirts, but had succeeded in injuring her business materially. She claimed that she sent the shirts to him to be laundried, her own establishment being overcrowded; and instead of doing them up neatly, he returned them slovenly starched and ironed and disfigured with those black splotches.

Colonel W. M. Bray was retained for the prosecution, and Mr. Garrett, of Blackburn & Garrett, for the defense.

Seeking an Interpreter.

The courtroom was full of people, quite a number being Chinamen.

With Mrs. Leon was her half-grown daughter and a negro servant. The latter conducted himself in such a manner toward the widow, and especially the girl, as made everybody present feel like pitching him out of the window. He tried to make himself the observed of all observers by his grinning and ogling, and it looked as if he were father confessor, general advisor and high factotum generally.

It soon developed that neither counsel nor court could understand the witness, and after several vain attempts to make the witness comprehend his meaning, Mr. Garrett asked for an interpreter.

Jim Sling, a wall-eyed oriental from away back, was first suggested, but Colonel Bray stopped his career by making him confess that he was a cousin to Chan Yee.

Then Lo Sam was called upon. He arose with considerable diffidence, but his pigeon English made the "plung-plung and so-long" of the witnesses intelligible, and he was allowed to act as a medium between the witness and the court.

Put Under Bond.

Justice Landrum evidently heard more of the case than he understood, as did the counsel on either side.

But the supreme court of the United States would have felt just as awkward as they, and their decision would hardly have come nearer hitting the oriental nail on the head.

The court decided after hearing eloquent argument on either side, in which the attorneys dropped into badly broken English every now and then, that Chan Yee was guilty of malicious mischief, and he was placed under bond to appear before the state courts in answer to the charge.

There was another charge against Chan Yee for gaming; he will be required to answer to the "fan tan" charge on Wednesday next, before Justice Landrum.
